House Gives OK to Cash For Defense

Biggest Money Bill Is Half Way Through — President's Power Not Curbed

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The biggest money bill of the year—nearly 29 billion dollars for defense—was half through its congressional journey today with the unanimous and almost dispute-free endorsement of the House.

What controversy there was revolved mainly around a non-financial matter: An effort to limit the President's authority with respect to American troop movements abroad. And this was knocked down yesterday on a 214-37 standing vote.

Then the congressmen sent the big measure to the Senate by roll-call, 377-0.

The $28,684,250,486 provided in the annual Defense Department appropriation bill is $1,202,804,514 less than President Eisenhower asked. It will give the military an estimated $76,800,000,000, including carryover funds from previous years, for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Extra Cash for Army

Displaying but little interest in the actual money allotments, the House followed the recommendations of its appropriations committee in all but one instance. It gave the army an extra $3,543,986 to keep in operation the Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass.

Most attention was devoted to a proposal by Rep. Coudert (R.-N.Y.) for a ban on use of U. S. military forces abroad without the consent of Congress, except in defense of nations bound to this country by mutual security agreements or following a formal declaration of war.

Coudert said he wanted to make certain that U. S. troops aren't sent to Indochina without the approval of Congress. Since the administration has said it doesn't intend to send troops to that French area, Coudert said, it shouldn't object to the limitation.

Against Amendment

But Eisenhower, at his news conference, spoke out against the amendment before the House voted, and his House leader, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, led the fight against it.

The air force was given the largest allotment of new funds under the House bill. Its share was $10,819,310,000, a cut of $380,690,000 from the President's budget requests. The army was given $7,619,066,986, a cut of $591,933,014; the navy $9,705,818,500, a cut of $209,181,500.

Other funds were for the office of the secretary of defense, the National Security Training Commission, and interservice activities.

The navy's allotment includes funds to start work on a fourth Forrestal type aircraft carrier and a third nuclear-powered submarine.

Stang Would Reclaim Swamp for City Use

Bungalow Is Destroyed

A five-room bungalow at Sawkill was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin on Thursday afternoon. The Sawkill Fire Department, summoned about 3:30 p. m., called for assistance from the West Hurley Fire Department's tank truck, but firemen were unable to save the structure because of the headway gained by the flames. The house was owned by George Walters of 70 Andover road, Roslyn Heights, L. I., and used as a summer residence, although described by a neighbor as a building suitable for year-around use, equipped with heating system. Sawkill Fire Chief Francis Joy reported the building was unoccupied at the time of the fire, and the cause of the fire is unknown. (Freeman photo)

Point Area Desirable For Future

Proposes Sanitary Land Fill Method to Turn 23 Acres Into Site Like Block Park

Stressing that the present Wilbur avenue dump is not the answer to Kingston's waste disposal problem, Mayor Frederick H. Stang today revealed a solid-land reclamation program he has planned to turn swampland into a useful site in the Kingston Point area of the city.

Pointing out that "many of our cities are now using a method that is called 'sanitary land fill,' or 'area land fill,'" Stang said he proposes to reclaim "about 23 acres on the east side of North street and the south side of Delaware avenue."

Refers to Block Park

Stang, referring to the World's Fair site in Flushing Meadows as having been reclaimed by the same method, and to this city's own Block Park, now one of Kingston's most presentable and most used play grounds, said the area he desires to improve could be used for the same purpose or for a commercial or industrial site.

The mayor's proposal calls for depositing waste material over the swampland each day, compressing it with a bulldozer, covering and sealing it with sand or dirt, available nearby, at the end of each day.

To Clear Impressions

In a statement to The Freeman Mayor Stang said:

It has come to my knowledge that there has been considerable misunderstanding relative to the establishment of a "dumping area" in the Fifth Ward. I believe some of these misunderstandings should be cleared up at this time.

The disposal of waste material in any community, large or small, is one of its most important problems. Years ago, every community had its public dump, which, at best was unsightly, offensive and unhealthy. However, thanks to the modern methods that have been developed, there is no longer any excuse for the old city dump, providing other land is available.

A great many of our cities are now using a method that is called "Sanitary Land Fill" or "Area Land Fill." In other words, reclaiming waste land, thereby killing two birds with one stone—the disposal of waste materials and reclaiming this waste land for play areas, commercial or industrial uses.

World's Fair Example

We all know what Block Park was before it was reclaimed, and those of us who visited the World's Fair in Flushing Meadows in 1939 and 1940 saw what could be accomplished by proper reclamation. We can do the same thing here.

The present Wilbur avenue dump is not the answer to Kingston's waste disposal problem. The land, or gully, where it is located, and the distance from any amount of proper cover or fill, does not lend itself economically to a land filling operation.

We have, however, in the city an area of about 23 acres located on the east side of North street and the south side of Delaware avenue avenue which is ideal for area land fill reclamation. What your administration would like to do is fill in this area or swamp with waste material. Then cover and seal it daily with sand or dirt, which material is available in great quantities a very short distance away. This means an economical operation.

Would Seal Every Day

Let me stress very sincerely, that this area will not become a dump, which would be unsightly

Decision to Come On Uranium Tests

Discussion Still Prevails About Claims; Public Is Given Warning

Peekskill, April 30 (AP)—A New York state official says a decision will be made in New York city next Tuesday on whether Edward Chalmers would be allowed to make uranium core-drilling tests on the National Guard reservation here.

Chalmers, 44, of Glenville, Conn., recently filed 34 claims to the mineral rights of about two-thirds of state-owned Camp Smith.

Chalmers and his attorneys say he has found amounts of uranium ore "satisfactory" for commercial purposes on the camp site.

In Albany yesterday, Arthur J. McLoughlin, secretary of the State Land Office Division, said it would be up to the State Land Board to decided whether Chalmers could make test drills.

Discounts Value

Peter Zodac, editor of Rock and Minerals, publication of the Rock and Minerals Assn. of America, told newsmen yesterday the deposits were "just a pitchblend" without enough uranium content for development.

Chalmers, a mechanic and former manufacturer of fishing reels, was not available for comment. His attorney, George W. Hurlburt, said his client had "gone into the field for the day."

Meanwhile the National Guard, fearing a flood of prospectors, issued a warning in Albany yesterday to uranium seekers who might try to enter the reservation without permits.

A spokesman for Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, guard commanding officer, said guardsmen were active on the firing ranges and added:

"The area is extremely dangerous. All unauthorized persons are urgently requested not to attempt to enter any portion of the reservation without proper clearance from proper National Guard authorities."

Sentries will be posted at all entrances to the reservation to prevent trespassing, the spokesman said.

Chalmers' 34 claims, of 40 acres each, amount to 1,360 acres of the 2,100-acre National Guard site.

Has Conducted Search

For the past six and a half weeks the Atomic Energy Commission has been conducting an aerial search for uranium deposits over four New York counties and three New Jersey counties. The report on the search has not yet been made available.

An AEC spokesman said assays of uranium-bearing samples had been submitted by Chalmers and a report sent back to him. The spokesman said the assay reports could not be made public by the commission and that only Chalmers could do so.

The AEC said the minimum amount of uranium ore acceptable to it is a concentration of 0.10 per cent, for which it will pay $1.50 a pound.

Treasury Receipts

Washington (April 30 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury April 28: Balance, $4,941,696,266.91; deposits fiscal year July 1, $55,416,960,714.98; withdrawals fiscal year, $58,454,274,264.42; total debt, $271,112,976,141.21x; gold assets, $21,968,004,425.31; x—includes $554,619,868.08 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Two Are Arrested, Charged With Theft; Tells of Ride

Discovered walking along the highway and bleeding about the head about 1 a. m. today, a West Pawling resident, 51, told state police he was beaten, robbed, and "dumped" from an automobile about a half-mile west of the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Two suspects were rounded up by troopers and a Poughkeepsie detective by 7:30 a. m., today and were scheduled to be arraigned on first degree robbery charges.

Treated at Hospital

The victim of the beating, William Johnson, was treated at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie this morning for concussions of the face, lacerations of the ear and nose, state police reported.

Arrested in Poughkeepsie were Robert Kessler, 27, of 34 South Clover street, and Peter James Corcoran, 21, of 124 Garden street.

Troopers said first degree robbery charges were placed against Kessler and Corcoran this morning after Johnson allegedly identified them as his assailants.

Met Them in Tavern

Johnson, who said he met the two men in a Poughkeepsie tavern, told troopers they took him for a ride, and dumped him along a side road about a half-mile west of the Ulster county end of the bridge.

Troopers said Johnson was unable to tell them this morning how much money was taken from him.

Furnished with a description of the men and their automobile, state police began an immediate investigation. By 7:30 a. m. the two suspects had been apprehended at their homes by Troopers Michael Lisman and Warren Beebe of the Highland station and Detective Schuyler of the Poughkeepsie Police Department.

$64,000 Port Ewen Firehouse to Have Opening Saturday

The refurbished Port Ewen Fire Department firehouse, constructed at a total cost of $64,000, will be open to the public Saturday from 2 to 8 p. m.

Fire Chief Edward F. Mains, who today issued a cordial invitation to the residents of the township to inspect the remodeled building tomorrow, said the public opening will be a milestone in the firemanic affairs in Port Ewen and desired all of the residents of the area to become better acquainted with the firemen, officers and commissioners.

Actual work on the refurbished and larger firehouse started in October, 1953, following the approval given by the taxpayers in August of that year. A bond issue totaling $64,000 was approved for the entire project including $20,000 for the new truck, $40,000 for the building and $4,000 for the building lot.

The present site of the firehouse, 9W on the corner of Legion Court, has been the home of the Port Ewen firemen since 1908 following the fire on George Washington's birthday in 1907 which destroyed the building.

Organized in 1896

The department itself was organized April 1, 1896, and the first firehouse was constructed on Main street near the home of Alanson Short.

In those early pioneer days of the fire-fighters of Port Ewen, the first apparatus was a horse-drawn hook and ladder truck equipped with buckets, ropes, hooks, canvas covers, together with 100 feet of ladders.

The equipment used during the company's infancy actually is a far cry of what the company has at its disposal in 1954 to combat blazes.

A motorized chemical truck was purchased in 1916 and remained in use until 1928 when the present 500-gallon Sanford pumper was purchased. In 1938, as an additional protection to the community, a Mac Hook and Ladder truck was obtained.

To go along with the remodeled building, the Port Ewen Fire Department in March of 1953 purchased the new Ward LaFrance 500-gallon Quad.

Makeup of Building

Replacing the former entrance on Route 9W the new building now may be entered on Legion Court.

Improvements and additions to the construction include a chief and commissioner's office, men's room with showers on the first floor while on the second floor additional space offers a large meeting room, modern kitchen, ladies

French Pilots Blast Reds With American Aircraft

Hanoi, Indochina, April 30 (AP)—French pilots flying American-supplied fighters and bombers roared out anew under clearing skies today to blast Vietminh concentrations ringing Dien Bien Phu.

All attempts by the rebel attackers to infiltrate into the main French defense positions were hammered back last night and early today. A French communique tersely described the situation at the embattled stronghold as "relatively calm."

Vietminh heavy mortars and artillery continued to pump hundreds of shells into the small patch of French defenses. Answering fire from French guns was centered on encampments of the Communist-led rebels in forested hills encircling the bastion. The French hit also at truck convoys arriving from Red China with fresh ammunition and supplies for the besieging thousands.

Fortress Commander Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries sent out more commando units during the night to destroy Vietminh gun emplacements and arms depots on the rim of the Dien Bien Phu plain. In the fast strikes, the raiders broke through Vietminh lines and captured a number of prisoners for questioning. In earlier clashes in the critical northwestern sector, the French Union forces reported killing at least 70 Vietminh soldiers.

A letup in the slashing monsoon rains that hit earlier this week provided the main respite for the Dien Bien Phu garrison, since French war planes could again take to the air.

Badly needed plane technicians were reported on their way to Indochina from North Africa today. Ground crewmen of the 14th French Air Fleet embarked from Dekarouba naval base in Tunisia, a report from Tunis said.

The technicians will service American Corsairs recently turned over to the French and flown here from the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Saipan. The Corsairs already are in action.

Parked Cars Damaged

Three parked cars were reported damaged in a mishap on St. James street near Broadway early today. Officers William Slover and William Snyder reported at 1:55 a. m., that the car of Louis Scism, 49 St. James street was turning into St. James street from Broadway "when the driver lost control" and it struck and damaged the cars of Felix Nettleton, 7 St. James street; William Squire, 17 Josephine avenue, and Janet B. Borton, 70 Green street.

Locke Reappointed

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced the reappointment of Willis R. Locke of 6 Smith avenue, to the Board of Police Commissioners. Locke was first appointed by former Mayor William F. Edelmuth, and received his second appointment by former Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. Other members of the board are William Singer, Robert S. Evory and James Murphy. Locke's new term expires May 1, 1958.

Rail Strike Awaits Mediation Talks

Brotherhood Official Says Meeting to Be Held Next Week

Syracuse, April 30 (AP)—The vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today a strike called against the New York Central east of Buffalo for Monday has been postponed pending talks with a U. S. mediator.

James Anderson, asked by a newsman if the strike was planned for Monday said:

"I understand there is going to be a meeting here Monday or Tuesday with a representative of the U. S. Mediation Board and if that's the case we will postpone the strike for a reasonable time."

Asked if that meant the strike now actually was postponed, he said:

"I'm going to tell you yes. I will take the responsibility for that."

Anderson said the mediator probably would meet with 42 representatives of locals in the cities that would be involved. He said they represent about 6,000 trainmen and yard workers.

The dispute hinges on senority and application of rules, according to Anderson, who said wages were not involved. The strike was called here last night.

In New York, the railroad said mediator Ross Foran would be in Syracuse Monday.

Trainmen's headquarters in Cleveland said William P. Kennedy, union head, had advised Anderson to arrange postponement of the strike, pending national mediation proceedings.

Auburn, April 30 (AP) — Four more convicts were freed from Auburn prison today as a result of a decision that a 1949 law was retroactive to 1945.

McCarthy Reveals Information at Quiz; Names Juliana

Washington, April 30 (AP) — James Juliana, an investigator for the McCarthy committee, testified today he ordered the printing of a controversial "cropped" photograph showing Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine alone.

He acknowledged the print was from a more extensive picture showing also Col. Jack T. Bradley.

Juliana said he had ordered enlargements of both the picture of Stevens and Schine alone, and a picture showing the two with Bradley.

Juliana said he delivered the photograph showing Schine and Stevens alone to the Senate committee investigating the McCarthy-army row, because he thought that was what the committee wanted.

Prodded by Chairman Mundt (R.-S.D.) as to whose "specific decision" it was to bring to the investigators the picture showing only Stevens and Schine, Juliana replied:

"That was my decision."

Juliana said he instructed Don Surine, assistant counsel for the McCarthy committee, to prepare the enlargements.

Juliana was called to the wit-

Russians Demand India Take Part in Talks on Indochina

Action Expected to Throw Another Block in Way; May Seek Role for Others

By EDDY GILMORE

Geneva, April 30 (AP)—An informed source said today Russia has demanded India be invited to take part in Indochina peace talks coming up here. Such a proposal is certain to throw another obstacle in the path of the Indochina talks.

The source said the Soviets might also even ask that Indonesia and Burma be invited to take part.

French and Indian circles expressed belief, however, the Russians would not press for India's inclusion. French officials were understood to feel the Soviet delegation will finally settle for a nine-party list also acceptable to the western powers.

Indian informants said they felt Russia would not make the inclusion of India a condition for convening of the Indochina parley. They hinted Russia might prefer to omit India so she would be eligible for some supervisory role in Indochina, similar to the role India played in Korea.

U. S. Firmly Opposed

The United States is understood to be firmly opposed to including India in the talks on the grounds the conference should be held to as small a circle of interested nations as possible.

India's Prime Minister Nehru recently announced to his own parliament in New Delhi a program for an end to the 7-year-old

Second Round of Polio Tests Will Begin in Ulster County

The second round of clinics for the administration of polio vaccine tests will begin in Ulster county on Tuesday of next week.

Most of Ulster county's first, second and third grade pupils participating in the test program received their first "shots" of vaccine this week. Three injections are given each child, the second coming exactly one week after the first, and the third coming four weeks after the second.

Health authorities have stressed the necessity for all participating children who have had their first injections to appear for the remaining two on the time scheduled.

With the first week of the test nearly completed, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, today commended members of the Ulster County Medical Society for their cooperation in administering the vaccine. Dr. Hargrave said:

"Most of the first clinics for the administration of polio vaccine have now been successfully completed throughout Ulster county. The response of the Ulster County Medical Society, through its physician members, has been magnificant. More than the number needed to staff the 38 clinics have volunteered their services and a reserve group has offered to step in as needed.

"Physicians are serving without compensation and have sacrificed time from their busy practices as a contribution to community service. Without these volunteer physicians and the backing of the Ulster County Medical Society the vaccine program could not be carried out, since the doctor is the basic and essential member of the clinic team. I feel that Ulster county owes a great debt of

Then the congressmen sent the big measure to the Senate by roll-call, 377-0.

The $28,684,250,486 provided in the annual Defense Department appropriation bill is $1,202,804,514 less than President Eisenhower asked. It will give the military an estimated $76,800,000,000, including carryover funds from previous years, for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Extra Cash for Army

Displaying but little interest in the actual money allotments, the House followed the recommendations of its appropriations committee in all but one instance. It gave the army an extra $3,543,986 to keep in operation the Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass.

Most attention was devoted to a proposal by Rep. Coudert (R.-N.Y.) for a ban on use of U. S. military forces abroad without the consent of Congress, except in defense of nations bound to this country by mutual security agreements or following a formal declaration of war.

Coudert said he wanted to make certain that U. S. troops aren't sent to Indochina without the approval of Congress. Since the administration has said it doesn't intend to send troops to that French area, Coudert said, it shouldn't object to the limitation.

Against Amendment

But Eisenhower, at his news conference, spoke out against the amendment before the House voted, and his House leader, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, led the fight against it.

The air force was given the largest allotment of new funds under the House bill. Its share was $10,819,310,000, a cut of $380,690,000 from the President's budget requests. The army was given $7,619,066,986, a cut of $591,933,014; the navy $9,705,818,500, a cut of $209,181,500.

Other funds were for the office of the secretary of defense, the National Security Training Commission, and interservice activities.

The navy's allotment includes funds to start work on a fourth Forrestal type aircraft carrier and a third nuclear-powered submarine.

Fortino Is Held

No one was reported injured in a two-car collision about 11:45 p. m. Thursday on Route 9W about six miles north of Kingston. State police said that a northbound vehicle driven by Carlton Bollheim, 40, of Malden was in collision with a southbound automobile driven by Frank Fortino, 56 Chapel street, Kingston. Shortly after the accident, troopers arrested Fortino, 40, at a drive-in restaurant on Route 9W on a charge of public intoxication. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster, Fortino was ordered held at the Ulster county jail in lieu of bail for a hearing this afternoon.

Bungalow Is Destroyed

A five-room bungalow at Sawkill was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin on Thursday afternoon. The Sawkill Fire Department, summoned about 3:30 p. m., called for assistance from the West Hurley Fire Department's tank truck, but firemen were unable to save the structure because of the headway gained by the flames. The house was owned by George Walters of 70 Andover road, Roslyn Heights, L. I., and used as a summer residence, although described by a neighbor as a building suitable for year-around use, equipped with heating system. Sawkill Fire Chief Francis Joy reported the building was unoccupied at the time of the fire, and the cause of the fire is unknown. (Freeman photo)

Point Area Desirable For Future

Proposes Sanitary Land Fill Method to Turn 23 Acres Into Site Like Block Park

Stressing that the present Wilbur avenue dump is not the answer to Kingston's waste disposal problem, Mayor Frederick H. Stang today revealed a solid-land reclamation program he has planned to turn swampland into a useful site in the Kingston Point area of the city.

Pointing out that "many of our cities are now using a method that is called 'sanitary land fill,' or 'area land fill,'" Stang said he proposes to reclaim "about 23 acres on the east side of North street and the south side of Delaware avenue."

Refers to Block Park

Stang, referring to the World's Fair site in Flushing Meadows as having been reclaimed by the same method, and to this city's own Block Park, now one of Kingston's most presentable and most used play grounds, said the area he desires to improve could be used for the same purpose or for a commercial or industrial site.

The mayor's proposal calls for depositing waste material over the swampland each day, compressing it with a bulldozer, covering and sealing it with sand or dirt, available nearby, at the end of each day.

To Clear Impressions

In a statement to The Freeman Mayor Stang said:

It has come to my knowledge that there has been considerable misunderstanding relative to the establishment of a "dumping area" in the Fifth Ward. I believe some of these misunderstandings should be cleared up at this time.

The disposal of waste material in any community, large or small, is one of its most important problems. Years ago, every community had its public dump, which, at best was unsightly, offensive and unhealthy. However, thanks to the modern methods that have been developed, there is no longer any excuse for the old city dump, providing other land is available.

A great many of our cities are now using a method that is called "Sanitary Land Fill" or "Area Land Fill." In other words, reclaiming waste land, thereby killing two birds with one stone—the disposal of waste materials and reclaiming this waste land for play areas, commercial or industrial uses.

World's Fair Example

We all know what Block Park was before it was reclaimed, and those of us who visited the World's Fair in Flushing Meadows in 1939 and 1940 saw what could be accomplished by proper reclamation. We can do the same thing here.

The present Wilbur avenue dump is not the answer to Kingston's waste disposal problem. The land, or gully, where it is located, and the distance from any amount of proper cover or fill, does not lend itself economically to a land filling operation.

We have, however, in the city an area of about 23 acres located on the east side of North street and the south side of Delaware avenue avenue which is ideal for area land fill reclamation. What your administration would like to do is fill in this area or swamp with waste material. Then cover and seal it daily with sand or dirt, which material is available in great quantities a very short distance away. This means an economical operation.

Would Seal Every Day

Let me stress very sincerely, that this area will not become a dump, which would be unsightly

McCarthy Reveals Information at Quiz; Names Juliana

Washington, April 30 (AP) — James Juliana, an investigator for the McCarthy committee, testified today he ordered the printing of a controversial "cropped" photograph showing Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine alone.

He acknowledged the print was from a more extensive picture showing also Col. Jack T. Bradley.

Juliana said he had ordered enlargements of both the picture of Stevens and Schine alone, and a picture showing the two with Bradley.

Juliana said he delivered the photograph showing Schine and Stevens alone to the Senate committee investigating the McCarthy-army row, because he thought that was what the committee wanted.

Prodded by Chairman Mundt (R.-S.D.) as to whose "specific decision" it was to bring to the investigators the picture showing only Stevens and Schine, Juliana replied:

"That was my decision."

Juliana said he instructed Don Surine, assistant counsel for the McCarthy committee, to prepare the enlargements.

Juliana was called to the wit-

Rail Strike Awaits Mediation Talks

Brotherhood Official Says Meeting to Be Held Next Week

Syracuse, April 30 (AP)—The vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today a strike called against the New York Central east of Buffalo for Monday has been postponed pending talks with a U. S. mediator.

James Anderson, asked by a newsman if the strike was planned for Monday said:

"I understand there is going to be a meeting here Monday or Tuesday with a representative of the U. S. Mediation Board and if that's the case we will postpone the strike for a reasonable time."

Asked if that meant the strike now actually was postponed, he said:

"I'm going to tell you yes. I will take the responsibility for that."

Anderson said the mediator probably would meet with 42 representatives of locals in the cities that would be involved. He said they represent about 6,000 trainmen and yard workers.

The dispute hinges on senority and application of rules, according to Anderson, who said wages were not involved. The strike was called here last night.

In New York, the railroad said mediator Ross Foran would be in Syracuse Monday.

Trainmen's headquarters in Cleveland said William P. Kennedy, union head, had advised Anderson to arrange postponement of the strike, pending national mediation proceedings.

Russians Demand India Take Part in Talks on Indochina

Action Expected to Throw Another Block in Way; May Seek Role for Others

By EDDY GILMORE

Geneva, April 30 (AP)—An informed source said today Russia has demanded India be invited to take part in Indochina peace talks coming up here. Such a proposal is certain to throw another obstacle in the path of the Indochina talks.

The source said the Soviets might also even ask that Indonesia and Burma be invited to take part.

French and Indian circles expressed belief, however, the Russians would not press for India's inclusion. French officials were understood to feel the Soviet delegation will finally settle for a nine-party list also acceptable to the western powers.

Indian informants said they felt Russia would not make the inclusion of India a condition for convening of the Indochina parley. They hinted Russia might prefer to omit India so she would be eligible for some supervisory role in Indochina, similar to the role India played in Korea.

U. S. Firmly Opposed

The United States is understood to be firmly opposed to including India in the talks on the grounds the conference should be held to as small a circle of interested nations as possible.

India's Prime Minister Nehru recently announced to his own parliament in New Delhi a program for an end to the 7-year-old

Second Round of Polio Tests Will Begin in Ulster County

The second round of clinics for the administration of polio vaccine tests will begin in Ulster county on Tuesday of next week.

Most of Ulster county's first, second and third grade pupils participating in the test program received their first "shots" of vaccine this week. Three injections are given each child, the second coming exactly one week after the first, and the third coming four weeks after the second.

Health authorities have stressed the necessity for all participating children who have had their first injections to appear for the remaining two on the time scheduled.

With the first week of the test nearly completed, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, today commended members of the Ulster County Medical Society for their cooperation in administering the vaccine. Dr. Hargrave said:

"Most of the first clinics for the administration of polio vaccine have now been successfully completed throughout Ulster county. The response of the Ulster County Medical Society, through its physician members, has been magnificant. More than the number needed to staff the 38 clinics have volunteered their services and a reserve group has offered to step in as needed.

"Physicians are serving without compensation and have sacrificed time from their busy practices as a contribution to community service. Without these volunteer physicians and the backing of the Ulster County Medical Society the vaccine program could not be carried out, since the doctor is the basic and essential member of the clinic team. I feel that Ulster county owes a great debt of and offensive. The plan calls for dumping the material each day; compressing it with a bulldozer; covering and sealing it with dirt at the end of each day.

Some of you have observed the conditions on the east side of North street since we have leveled off the refuse which had accumulated there. If our present plans go through, the entire area will eventually look like that. What a perfect spot for a playground for the children of your area.

Please believe me when I say that I want to do all I can to insure the well-being and happiness of all our people. I honestly believe that this proposed land filling operation will, if given an opportunity, prove to be one of the most beneficial projects for this area.

Will Hold Hearing

I want to assure you, too, that before anything is done with respect to this swamp area, a public hearing will be held, at which time the complete plan will be explained in detail and everyone will be given an opportunity to express his opinion.

If, after a reasonable time, this proposed practice should not be satisfactory, work would stop immediately, the area would be sealed and we would then make a further effort to solve this difficult problem some other way.

McCarthy Discloses Data

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) told Senate investigators today that James Juliana, a member of his staff, altered a picture to make it show only Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine standing together.

McCarthy interrupted testimony in the television hearings of his dispute with Stevens and other army officials to say that Juliana handled the disputed picture. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch called it "hot."

McCarthy's announcement came dramatically after Welch himself had announced that he would try to have McCarthy called as the next major witness in the controversy after Stevens completes his testimony. The army secretary left the stand yesterday when the committee decided to pursue the matter of the "cropped" photograph.

With George Anastos, a McCarthy staff member on the stand, McCarthy protested that a "filibuster" was in progress.

He said the committee should "call the man who handled the removal of the colonel (Jack T. Bradley) from the photograph" of Stevens, Schine and Bradley.

McCarthy said Juliana would testify that he received a picture with three people in it and "explain how, when and where the third man was cut off" of the print which was submitted to the committee.

Chairman Mundt (R.-S. D.) ruled that the committee will decide when to call Juliana and ordered the questioning of Anastos be continued.

Anastos and another member of the McCarthy staff had testified they knew nothing about any "cropping" of the picture, but they gave conflicting versions of its handling.

Anastos said he accompanied Schine from Washington National Airport to the subcommittee's offices last Thursday and Shine put the photograph on a desk there.

Accord Man Fined On Driving Charge

Edward Clarence DePuy, 27, of RD, Accord, was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and for allegedly passing a red light yesterday afternoon after an accident at Clinton avenue and Henry street.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced DePuy to pay a fine of $50 or spend 50 days in jail on the drunken driving charge and imposed a fine of $10 on the other charge, after he had pleaded guilty. The fines were not paid immediately, but were expected to be paid later today. The judge also revoked the defendant's license.

A police report at 3:58 p. m., said a truck, owned by Warren Collins, of Accord, and operated by DePuy, was headed north on Clinton avenue, and the sedan of Abe Davis, 50, of Ashokan, was headed east on Henry street when they collided. Collins, the report said, suffered injuries of the forehead, left arm and left leg.

No Physician Obtained

DePuy was arrested by Davis on the charge dealing with the passing a red light and by Officers Louis Sapp, Jr., and Meyer Levy on the drunken driving charge. Police said no physician was obtained for an examination after the arrest on the drunken driving charge.

Both vehicles were reported damaged on the front, and the Davis car was reported damaged on the frame and under structure.

Condition Is Good

The condition of David Manello, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Manello, of 149 Spring street, who was injured last Sunday in a fall from a gate in the Montrepose Cemetery, was reported as "good" at the Benedictine Hospital today. and offensive. The plan calls for dumping the material each day; compressing it with a bulldozer; covering and sealing it with dirt at the end of each day.

Some of you have observed the conditions on the east side of North street since we have leveled off the refuse which had accumulated there. If our present plans go through, the entire area will eventually look like that. What a perfect spot for a playground for the children of your area.

Please believe me when I say that I want to do all I can to insure the well-being and happiness of all our people. I honestly believe that this proposed land filling operation will, if given an opportunity, prove to be one of the most beneficial projects for this area.

Will Hold Hearing

I want to assure you, too, that before anything is done with respect to this swamp area, a public hearing will be held, at which time the complete plan will be explained in detail and everyone will be given an opportunity to express his opinion.

If, after a reasonable time, this proposed practice should not be satisfactory, work would stop immediately, the area would be sealed and we would then make a further effort to solve this difficult problem some other way.

C of C Campaign For Members Is Being Conducted

The annual membership campaign of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce opened Thursday with the mailing of renewal forms to members and the start of a canvass of more than 100 contacts by 26 committeemen.

Canvassers met early Thursday for breakfast at the Governor Clinton Hotel before starting their rounds.

Early reports at the Chamber office this morning indicated a favorable reception and numerous new applications for membership were received.

John H. Haulenbeek, chairman of the membership committee, stated that a goal of 90 new members has been set for the fiscal year starting tomorrow, May 1. This goal, if attained, would bring the total memberships to 525.

At Thursday's breakfast meeting, N. Jansen Fowler, Chamber president, outlined the need for additional funds to finance expanded activities. "Our present membership receipts cover overhead costs such as salaries, rent and office expense. This will enable us to use all additional receipts on promotional activities," he said.

Gets Certificate Commending Vital Part in GI Loans

A capacity crowd attended the dinner held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday night in honor of E. Frank Flanagan, Veterans of Foreign Wars Citizenship award winner for 1953. Flanagan was selected by a committee of Past Commanders for his outstanding interest in veteran activities during 1953.

State Commander Edward Papantonio, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was the guest speaker and referred to the numerous community projects sponsored by the VFW, including Scouting, blood banks, flag presentations, anti-Communist activities and many other community and civic interests. He commended Flanagan for his splendid community efforts and his assistance to veterans, interest in charitable and civic projects and his spirit of cooperation.

Presentation by Robins

Commander Donald Robins of Joyce-Schirick Post, VFW, made the certificate award to Flanagan.

In accepting the award Flanagan cited facts and figures of GI loans made by the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, of which he is president. He said that 1,067 loans had been made representing over $7,000,000. Only seven veterans had defaulted, he emphasized.

He pointed out this is a much lower rate than in conventional loans and he said it manifested the sincerity and industry of the veteran.

Flanagan also said that the peak of home loans to veterans for a single month occurred in 1946 when 279 loans were made representing more than $1,500,000.

Wording of Citation

The citation awarded to Flanagan read:

"In appreciation of his wise counsel and assistance to hundreds of veterans in obtaining home loans; for his generous and most always anonymous support to all civic betterment and youth assistance programs and for his consideration to all the less-fortunate of Kingston and Ulster county."

City Judge Raymond J. Mino was toastmaster. Mayor Frederick Stang was presented and welcomed the state commander and commended Flanagan on his outstanding civic interests.

Shurter Praised

The Rt. Rev. Stephen P. Connelly gave the invocation and Rev. James Dunnigan of Sawkill, VFW chaplain pronounced the benediction.

Howard C. Shurter, director of the Ulster County Veterans Agency, also was presented and commended for his service to veterans and for his part in making the citizenship dinner a success.

Screwballs to Get Psychiatric Checkups

Chicago, April 30 (AP)—Those automobile drivers who make you wonder why they don't have their heads examined, are going to.

A psychiatric laboratory is to be set up in Chicago to examine "crazy" drivers, Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler of the municipal court said yesterday.

"Psychiatrists have found that screwball motorists are really a little off in the head," Scheffler said. "The mental condition can be diagnosed by a laboratory examination."

Scheffler said the laboratory will be part of a central traffic enforcement building for police and courts which will be opened next year.

Groves Is Likely Juror Director

With the position of Commission of Jurors for Ulster County vacant since the death on March 22 of Frank J. McCardle, who had held the position since it was created, there has been considerable speculation as to a successor.

Several names have been suggested but the one who appears to be a probable successor to Commissioner McCardle, is John T. Groves of Port Ewen. Mr. Groves has served the town of Esopus as supervisor and has also been county treasurer.

Some 180 species of holly grow in various parts of the world, but only about a dozen can be found in the United States.

Russians Demand

Indochina war, including an immediate cease-fire, a non-intervention pact by the big powers and direct negotiations between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels.

The report of Russia's move to bring India to Geneva came shortly after it was revealed that Viet Nam's chief of state Bao Dai had agreed to sit down at the conference table here with representatives of the Vietminh.

Earlier Obstacles

Until the reported new Russian demand, Bao Dai's previous opposition to rebel participation had been the major obstacle preventing organization of the Indochina talks after conclusion of the present debate on Korea.

It was reported earlier the east and west were virtually agreed on including nine parties at the Indochina conference. These would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Red China, the Vietminh and the three French-sponsored governments of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

If the talks were to be expanded at all, the United States was reported at the most to favor only the addition of Thailand and Burma to the conference, since those two countries border on Indochina.

Gasoline Barge Burns

Antioch, Cailf., April 30 (AP)—An empty gasoline barge was struck by a hit and run motorship on the San Joaquin river this morning, exploded, burst into flame and burned several hours. The coast guard said there were no casualties. The Blue Star Line later reported its motorship Debrett had struck the barge and made its way to San Francisco with a hole in its bow.

Application Made To Move Cemetery

Construction of the Thruway in the town of Rosendale makes necessary the removal of several bodies from the LeFever Cemetery, a private cemetery, and reinterment in another cemetery.

An application has been made to County Judge John M. Cashin for an order authorizing this transfer. The order to show cause is returnable on May 19.

Paul G. Baldwin, director of the Bureau of Rights of Way and Claims in the Department of Public Works of the State of New York, petitions the court for permission to transfer the eleven bodies from the private burying grounds located on the town road leading from Route 32 to the Central Hudson Power Company plant in the town of Rosendale.

Those interred in the private burying grounds are Mary LeFever, Simon LeFever, Joseph Van Wagenen, Catherine LeFever, Catherine Marie LeFever, Letta Jane LeFever, Ellen LeFever, Cornelius W. LeFever, Daniel S. LeFever, Melissa LeFever and Maria Plough.

Application for removal of the bodies from the cemetery is reminiscent of the days during the construction of the Ashokan and Rondout reservoirs by the City of New York when several rural cemeteries and private burying grounds were affected. In several instances whole cemeteries were moved to adjacent localities above the reservoir takings.

C of C Campaign For Members Is Being Conducted

The annual membership campaign of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce opened Thursday with the mailing of renewal forms to members and the start of a canvass of more than 100 contacts by 26 committeemen.

Canvassers met early Thursday for breakfast at the Governor Clinton Hotel before starting their rounds.

Early reports at the Chamber office this morning indicated a favorable reception and numerous new applications for membership were received.

John H. Haulenbeek, chairman of the membership committee, stated that a goal of 90 new members has been set for the fiscal year starting tomorrow, May 1. This goal, if attained, would bring the total memberships to 525.

At Thursday's breakfast meeting, N. Jansen Fowler, Chamber president, outlined the need for additional funds to finance expanded activities. "Our present membership receipts cover overhead costs such as salaries, rent and office expense. This will enable us to use all additional receipts on promotional activities," he said.

Screwballs to Get Psychiatric Checkups

Chicago, April 30 (AP)—Those automobile drivers who make you wonder why they don't have their heads examined, are going to.

A psychiatric laboratory is to be set up in Chicago to examine "crazy" drivers, Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler of the municipal court said yesterday.

"Psychiatrists have found that screwball motorists are really a little off in the head," Scheffler said. "The mental condition can be diagnosed by a laboratory examination."

Scheffler said the laboratory will be part of a central traffic enforcement building for police and courts which will be opened next year.

Groves Is Likely Juror Director

With the position of Commission of Jurors for Ulster County vacant since the death on March 22 of Frank J. McCardle, who had held the position since it was created, there has been considerable speculation as to a successor.

Several names have been suggested but the one who appears to be a probable successor to Commissioner McCardle, is John T. Groves of Port Ewen. Mr. Groves has served the town of Esopus as supervisor and has also been county treasurer.

Russians Demand

Indochina war, including an immediate cease-fire, a non-intervention pact by the big powers and direct negotiations between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels.

The report of Russia's move to bring India to Geneva came shortly after it was revealed that Viet Nam's chief of state Bao Dai had agreed to sit down at the conference table here with representatives of the Vietminh.

Earlier Obstacles

Until the reported new Russian demand, Bao Dai's previous opposition to rebel participation had been the major obstacle preventing organization of the Indochina talks after conclusion of the present debate on Korea.

It was reported earlier the east and west were virtually agreed on including nine parties at the Indochina conference. These would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Red China, the Vietminh and the three French-sponsored governments of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

If the talks were to be expanded at all, the United States was reported at the most to favor only the addition of Thailand and Burma to the conference, since those two countries border on Indochina.

Gasoline Barge Burns

Antioch, Calif., April 30 (AP)—An empty gasoline barge was struck by a hit and run motorship on the San Joaquin river this morning, exploded, burst into flame and burned several hours. The coast guard said there were no casualties. The Blue Star Line later reported its motorship Debrett had struck the barge and made its way to San Francisco with a hole in its bow.

Application Made To Move Cemetery

Construction of the Thruway in the town of Rosendale makes necessary the removal of several bodies from the LeFever Cemetery, a private cemetery, and reinterment in another cemetery.

An application has been made to County Judge John M. Cashin for an order authorizing this transfer. The order to show cause is returnable on May 19.

Paul G. Baldwin, director of the Bureau of Rights of Way and Claims in the Department of Public Works of the State of New York, petitions the court for permission to transfer the eleven bodies from the private burying grounds located on the town road leading from Route 32 to the Central Hudson Power Company plant in the town of Rosendale.

Those interred in the private burying grounds are Mary LeFever, Simon LeFever, Joseph Van Wagenen, Catherine LeFever, Catherine Marie LeFever, Letta Jane LeFever, Ellen LeFever, Cornelius W. LeFever, Daniel S. LeFever, Melissa LeFever and Maria Plough.

Application for removal of the bodies from the cemetery is reminiscent of the days during the construction of the Ashokan and Rondout reservoirs by the City of New York when several rural cemeteries and private burying grounds were affected. In several instances whole cemeteries were moved to adjacent localities above the reservoir takings.

KEEP COMMUNITY CLEAN

Keeping our community clean is an important duty and one that we share with our elected officials. Conducive to our health, happiness and comfort, it is a community responsibility which should be participated in by every citizen.

Cooperative efforts to give communities a thorough cleaning at least once a year were undertaken by most American cities a number of years ago. Their purpose, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, was to teach the importance of continuous cleanliness in and about the home.

At first the campaign was devoted to ridding homes and yards of rubbish and waste that had accumulated during the winter months. Later the campaigns were spread over a period of a week or longer and now not only is an effort made to collect and cart away the winter's accumulation of waste, but many communities also undertake programs of fire prevention education, fly and mosquito extermination and home beautification. Cellars, attics, backyards, vacant lots, alleys, streets—in fact every spot in the city, whether on public or private property, comes under scrutiny by public officials and citizens' committees.

In recent years the movement has spread so rapidly that today practically every city has a spring campaign, some repeating the effort in the fall, during Fire Prevention Week. Many others make a continuing year-'round campaign.

Since we individually in this community stand to benefit greatly from this activity, we should do our share of the work. Then the rewards of health, happiness and comfort will result.

FOR EQUAL SCHOOLING

Mississippi is doing something about the long-time racial discrimination in its public schools. A potent argument which has been at least partly responsible for the court outlawing of segregation has been that the facilities provided for Negroes have been far inferior to those for whites. The Senate has just passed a bill appropriating $50,000,000 to equalize schools for the two races. The House has already passed the bill, but it must return there to iron out a difference in phrasing. The legislation is to carry out an equalization program, agreed to last year.

Fifty million dollars is a large sum for a state with as little wealth as Mississippi. The appropriation of such a sum shows that citizens are serious about their responsibility to their Negro residents. Perhaps if they had taken this action before, the movement to abolish segregation would have made less headway. They didn't, but have done it now and will probably gain in every way from their decision.

UNFORTUNATE CONFUSION

Vice President Nixon's "off-the-record" remarks about the possibility of sending our troops to Indo-China, in the event that the French withdraw from the fighting there, were ill-timed and unfortunate. With the best intentions in the world, Mr. Nixon contributed to the confusion already in the public mind as to the role we must play in the crisis in Indo-China.

To begin with, the Vice President should have known that his remarks to such a large number of people could not be long kept off the record, that it was inevitable that his name and his statements should have been connected. If he was speaking with the approval of the President and the Secretary of State then he should have spoken for the record; if he was merely expressing his personal opinion, which he said he was, he should have remained silent. It is difficult to convince the public or other countries that when an official in as exalted a position as our Vice President gives an opinion it is not a statement of administration policy.

Secretary of State Dulles may be withholding a clear statement of our policy in Indo-China to keep from tipping our hand to the Reds. If this is his purpose it is understandable. But the administration would do well to keep high officials from making statements which cannot help but add to confusion at a time when confusion can be extremely dangerous.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A FATAL DOCTRINE

Professor Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, who has been very active in the development of the new economics which guided the New Deal, has penned a sentence which requires some comment even while the Senate is probing into who said what to whom, which seems so important to some people that the Chief of Staff of the Army and other top brass can take time off to sit for hours as spectators while a war is going on in Indochina. The learned professor wrote:

"When there are deficits, the business man pulls in his belt. But this is a fatal principle in government. The guiding doctrine should be this: what government does better, or what cannot be done under private auspices, must be done by government. But the new Administration proposes a return to 18th Century principles that would leave undone all but the minimum tasks of government."

The doctrine here enunciated is even new in the New Deal in one part of the argument, namely that "what government does better . . . must be done by government." This is, of course, a total negation of private enterprise. I suppose by "better," the professor means more efficiently, more cheaply, more adequately. It is not beyond belief that the Government could dispense cigars more efficiently and even more cheaply than the thousands of cigar stores that compete against each other for my custom.

The government-owned installations could make up the difference by not paying taxes; by putting in low-priced civil service workers who would be forbidden to strike by law and whose only hope for the future lay in a pension; by taking the sites for factories and stores from private owners by the law of eminent domain; by making up deficits out of taxes; and finally, by abolishing cigars as against the common interest.

This is the efficiency of slavery, not of free men. Apparently Professor Harris would not have the Government perform minimum tasks as Thomas Jefferson held to be right. What are the maximum tasks of government? It could be total control of every function of the individual in society, the ownership of all property and the control of each person, from the cradle to the grave. Such a society now exists in the Soviet Universal State. Its most developed form is in Soviet Russia; its worst form is in Red China. In both these countries, limitations are placed upon the development of the individual which have produced a way of life completely different from ours in which the individual need neither be dependent upon nor cravenly obedient to those who control the power of the state. He can vote them out of office.

It is not a question as to which system is "better," but rather which system a people prefers. Our theory is based on the right of choice, on the right of a people to determine for themselves the kind of government they want. If the American people want Socialism or Communism, they could, by orderly constitutional means, establish such societies. They could amend the Constitution to conform to their ideas.

Professor Harris removes himself from the objectivity of the scholar to the confusions of vitriolic journalism when he writes:

"What the Honest Dollar School proposes is to make the dollar more valuable by reducing the supply. This is at the bottom of the proposals to balance the budget, to cut government spending, to raise the rate of interest, and cut the supply of credit. . . ."

It would seem that the professor cannot relate his thinking to the dangers of inflation, which can wreck such a society as ours. The 53-cent dollar is a peril to us because it dries up the reservoirs of private capital and makes an increasing number of persons dependent upon the State. A 25-cent dollar, a ten-cent dollar, would end not only private enterprise but a free society. The so-called "Honest Dollar," an excellent term, hopes to reestablish the value of the dollar, the purchasing power of the dollar so that families may be enabled to save money, to reduce debt and to invest for the future. Is such a program wrong? Is it justified to say, as Professor Harris does say, that such a dollar will produce "blood-letting, bankruptcy, and liquidation"?

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

BED WETTING—ENURESIS

I write often about bed wetting (enuresis) because it means so much to child and parents to have this embarrassing condition corrected or greatly improved. A youngster who cannot visit young friends for a single night or weekend is greatly handicapped in his everyday life yet a great many can so adjust their habits that life is made much less miserable.

While some may have the idea that an operation can bring about a cure, an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association states that anatomical or physiological abnormalities are present in only about 3 per cent of those affected and since these can be treated by specific measures, physicians have found that establishing certain regular habits in which the parents can supervise, gives the best positive results in the treatment of bed wetting. "In any child, if reached three and one-half years, training is likely to be difficult."

The causes of loss of bladder control at night are varied and range from laziness to psychic (emotional) disturbances.

Drs. Holt and Holland, outstanding chidren's specialists, state that bed wetting is purely a habit, often associated with other habits that go with an unstable personality. Other specialists say that there is a strong family tendency commonly observed in these patients and they maintain an irritable bladder throughout life although they no longer wet the bed.

That there is some psychic or emotional underlying cause in some cases is stated by Drs. E. C. Turton and A. B. Spear because they found that electroencephalograms (which register the movements of the brain) did not give the usual findings in enuresis. These two research workers obtained electroencephalograms on 100 children with enuresis and found 22 with tracings showing epilepsy, 28 with immature tracings on the borderline of abnormality. For this reason they concluded that many enuretics who do not respond to treatment has unsuspected physical basis for their disorder and that the electroencephalogram is an aid in the diagnosis.

Because the desire to urinate depends on the pressure within the bladder rather than on the amount of fluid, Drs. J. F. O'Malley and R. H. Owens in the Missouri Medical Association Journal some weeks ago reported that Banthine, by removing this pressure in the bladder, gave the patients great relief.

I have written before about an alarm apparatus that wakened the individual at stated periods and thus prevented bed wetting.

I have also written about using a salt sandwich before the child went to bed. The salt holds the liquid in the tissues until the morning.

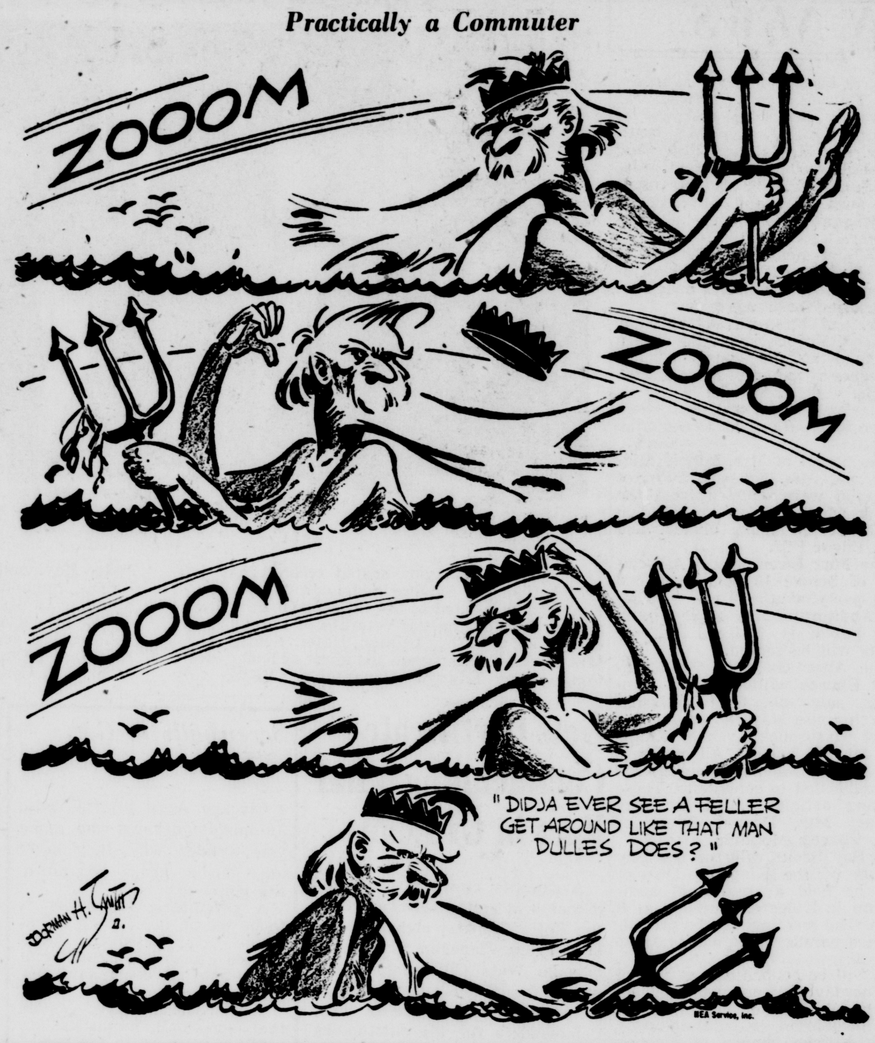

The editorial makes the final statement that the chief cause of failures in the treatment of enuresis is the poor cooperation of parents.

Practically a Commuter

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—There is a far bigger issue to the current investigations of Federal Housing Administration irregularities than shows on the surface. It is how much of an "incentive" private business needs to do a public service job in the national interest?

A lot of words have been spouted to the effect that government should get out of all business-type activities and leave everything to private enterprise.

But the experience of government over the last 20 years has shown that unless private enterprise is guaranteed a handsome profit on public service it will not take the job.

* * *

This is true not only with regard to various government housing programs, but to national defense and even farming.

It applies to the accelerated tax amortization plans in effect since the beginning of World War II. They were considered necessary to provide business with an incentive to tackle defense production.

It applies to the huge depreciation allowances given oil and gas producers in one of the largest loopholes in existing tax law.

It applies to the huge subsidies given American ship builders and shipping line operators. These incentives are considered necessary to maintain an American merchant marine in peacetime so that it will be available for military transport in time of war. Proposed legislation now before Congress would even increase these incentives.

It applies also to the newly proposed incentives to business in pending tax reform legislation. These incentives include a reduction of taxes on dividends, a change in depreciation allowance schedules for tax purposes, and tax reductions on income from foreign investments made in support of U. S. foreign policy to aid the economic development of friendly, non-Communist countries.

* * *

Biggest of all the incentives given to private enterprise is of course the farm price support program. Price supports were originally introduced during the depression to assure farmers of a minimum income. The incentives were increased in wartime to guarantee the farmers high income for producing bumper crops for the war effort.

It is now virtually impossible to reduce these support-price levels, even though they provide an incentive to produce farm surpluses in excess of the demand, at a cost of billions of dollars to the taxpayers and at an actual waste.

The question on all these incentives is, how big do they have to be to make the so-called private enterprise system function?

The obvious answer is that no businessman or anybody else is going to risk money on an enterprise if he thinks he'll lose his shirt at it. That is just plain horse sense.

But does there have to be an opportunity for unlimited profits by unscrupulous operators and racketeers?

* * *

The answer to the war profiteers of World War 1 was the renegotiation act of World War 2. It enabled the government to recapture excessive profits on defense contracts. It would seem to be no more than simple justice to provide a renegotiation clause for housing contractors receiving the benefits of government insured mortgages.

An examination of congressional hearings on the house legislation now under investigation reveals that Congress knowingly made allowances for overgenerous profits to the building industry. This legislation was renewed by Congress in 10 different laws.

Listen to what ex-Congressman Albert M. Cole (R., Kan.) said about this program in 1949: "I agree that a political football has been made out of these housing bills. But Titiles I, II and VI of the FHA are not controversial. They are practically agreed on by all members of the House."

This is the same Mr. Cole who now, as Housing and Home Finance Administrator, kicked off this great housing scandal and is asking Congress for $250,000 to investigate the irregularities developed under these extra-incentive programs.

She Was Wrapped Up

Meriden, Conn. (AP)—A woman driver got a parking ticket. "But officer," she expostulated, "I was trying on a girdle and they gave me a size too small. I couldn't get out of it in time to put in a second nickle." The ticket cost her $1 anyway.

Military Men Are Skeptical About Line Establishing Indochina Cease-Fire

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Geneva, April 30—If somebody can draw a line inside Indochina that is militarily defensible and does not mean the entering wedge for an infiltration of the whole area by Communists, a cease-fire can be worked out at this conference. That is what President Eisenhower described as a "modus vivendi," which is an old diplomatic phrase meaning a mode of living with a disagreeable and unsolvable situation.

But the military men of the French High Command and of the United States are skeptical as to whether such a line can be found. If the diplomats want a military line submitted merely as a way out of their political difficulties, it can be drawn. There isn't any use deceiving anybody, however, for such a truce line will become the effective partition line, and ultimately can mean the acquisition of all Indochina by the Communists.

The optimistic doctrine is being handed out in some quarters here that, while the cease-fire is in effect and discussions are dragging along for a year or two as to a political conference to be held at some subsequent date, there will be an opportunity to train local troops to safeguard the independence of the three new states. All this would mean that, like Korea, Indochina would have a truce line and the fighting would be over. But the moment the Communists find out that the allies here are ready to throw in the sponge at some designated truce line, the price will go up. The Communists will insist on a line even more advantageous to them, and the haggling here may go on for weeks on that point.

Meanwhile, Secretary Dulles has announced that he is going back to Washington on Tuesday. The effect may be to speed up the conversations looking toward possible agreements because, if there is to be a long wrangle, the secretary would prefer to have his deputy here while he exercises freedom of action in giving from Washington the necessary instructions to the American delegation.

It has been evident for some time that the sole purpose of the Communists in coming to this conference was to try to make some kind of trade in the Indo-China situation which would relieve Moscow of the burden of military supply to southeast Asia and yet achieve for them practical control of the area. Judging by the public speeches made thus far, the Communists have not the slightest intention of agreeing now to any plan for the unification of Korea, though they will pay lip service to the principal of unification. Their concept is to have elections of the kind they proposed for Germany, and the net effect of such plan would be to acquire control of all Korea for the Communists.

It was regrettable that Robert Casey, foreign secretary of Australia, in his speech—which was really noncommittal on the North Korean plan for a general election of all Korea—allowed himself to be placed in the position where the Communists could use his address as an argument that the western alliance was weakening in its attitude toward a continuance of the South Korean Republic as the entity created by the United Nations. Any tendency here on the part of the western allies to accept, even by inference, the notion that the two parts of Korea can be combined by a general election with all outside "interference," as the Communists call any UN supervision of elections, prohibited is bound to stir up Syngman Rhee and complicate matters in Korea itself. It is reminiscent of the "coalition" type of settlements which were supposed to produce an independent Poland and Czechoslovakia and resulted only in their complete subjugation by the Communists.

The envoys of the western allies are supposed not to be naive but fully aware of the facts of Communists.

The envoys of the western allies are supposed not to be naive but fully aware of the facts of Communist strategy. The American delegation analyzed the North Korean proposals and rejected them out of hand.

The United States is opposed in principle to a partition of Indochina but it prepared to express its views only after some concrete proposal is at hand. If such a proposal is unsatisfactory to America, yet is pressed by the French and they are prepared to surrender their influence in Indo-China by accepting a truce line that will in effect become a permanent partition, the United States will express its dissenting views and then take a look at the whole European situation as well as the southeastern Asian problem and decide its future course. The question to determine will be whether America has faithful allies who will stand up against the Communists when the chips are down or whether France, for instance, is ready to accept permanent dismemberment of free countries wherever Communist aggression has taken away territory not only in Asia but in Europe, particularly in Germany. This could mean some day a recrudescence of militarism in Germany because the people there will never be satisfied to accept a divided country.

Some far-reaching decisions are involved here in the use of the term "partition" and in the phrase "cease-fire." It is possible that the Communists themselves may unwittingly save the day by adopting such an adamant stand as to force the Allies into a union stronger than ever and eventually into a collective-action program which can safeguard southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 29 — From time to time, I have called attention to the furtive political activities of one Arthur J. Goldsmith, who maintains mysterious political offices in the Waldorf Tower but never mentions the Tower as his political address, giving only the street number instead. When I say he is furtive and mysterious I refer to the fact that when I telephoned to ask about his political societies, he clammed up on me. He added, however, that he would answer questions put in writing, but when some questions were submitted in writing which any straightforward man should have been willing to answer, he ignored my inquiry.

Later, during the presidential campaign of 1952, I learned that General Eisenhower's brother, Arthur, the Kansas City banker, had holed up in the Waldorf in close proximity to Goldsmith and that Arthur was having "conferences" with him. Arthur Eisenhower, on the telephone, refused to discuss his relations with Goldsmith, even going so far as to charge in an abusive manner that I was preparing to misrepresent his activities and those of his new-found friend.

A few months later, in the dark of the moon, persons unknown and apparently not too proud of their feat, persuaded President-elect Eisenhower to sign a "testimonial" praising Goldsmith for no known reason. Representatives Case and Scott, and Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, who were implicated, all told evasive and conflicting stories.

Mystery is characteristic of all Goldsmith's politics and mystery is always a challenge to a reporter and to people who learn that they are being worked upon by designing strangers from afar. To emphasize the mysterious quality of this schemer and his several layouts, let me add that Martin Quigley, a publisher of movie magazines and a Catholic of rather pretentious aspect, refused to discuss his connection with one of the Goldsmith fronts by phone and that George Fielding Eliot, who also threw in with one layout, daredme, in a bellowing voice, to call him a Communist when I called up to talk things over. I don't know why he wanted me to call him a Communist.

I have shown that it is a part of Goldsmith's scheme to slip money into states where relatively few votes will elect senators and representatives who agree with him. He is a New Yorker with two senators, Ives and Lehman, to represent him, but he has the effrontery to horn into other states for the plain purpose of frustrating the franchise of the citizens thereof. To that purpose, in 1950 he "supported" George Franklin, Jr., a young Nevada lawyer with a decent war record, against Pat McCarran and brought him on to New York for a little term of coaching and discussion. McCarran was damned in that campaign because he had fought for the exclusion and deportation of Communists in two laws governing immigration and security. For that patriotic service he has been put to the most indecent abuse, all directed from the eastern seaboard, that any man has suffered in American politics in the current era with the sole exception of Joe McCarthy and for the same general reasons. An eastern woman who was sojourning in Las Vegas accompanied Mr. Franklin on his political pilgrimage to Goldsmith's New York headquarters although no reflection on their personal deportment is intended to be inferred.

Only recently, a propogandist in The New Yorker wrote the revealing observation that "a free paper in Nevada with a circulation of 25,000 could swing two seats in the Senate." That is the key to the strategy of eastern political societies which for some years have been quietly sluicing money into less populous states, including, specifically, New Hampshire, where Goldsmith sent money to elect the late Senator Tobey. The "free" paper which the New Yorker was extolling in Las Vegas whose editor, a registered ex-convict and press-agent for the Buggsy Siegal underworld mob, has been vilifying both McCarran and McCarthy, and recently was indicted by the federal jury on a charge of criminal violation of the postal laws in inciting the assassination of McCarthy.

I would here like to nail an item put out by The Associated Press last May 24 quoting a handout from a letterhead layout called The American Association for the United Nations. This handout said "a campaign of misrepresentation is being directed against the UN apparently backed by large southwest fortunes."

Continuing, the item said: "This charge was contained in a letter by Clark M. Eichelberger, executive director of the association, to its chapters throughout the country. The organization * * * is headed by William Emerson, of Boston, and one of its honorary presidents is Sumner Welles, former under-secretary of state. * * *

"'There is,' Eichelberger said, 'a well-financed campaign of misrepresentation of the United Nations. It is apparently financed by larger southwest fortunes. It seeks to capitalize on disappointment and ignorance.'"

This Eichelberger is a professional "executive" of political leagues of the Goldsmith pattern who has made a career of such stuff and is now working with Eleanor Roosevelt, who gave him a nod in her prattle a few days ago. And the best-known attempt by the use of secret slush-funds to swing elections in other states from unseen sources, contrary to the very spirit of the reform intended by the direct election of senators, has been directed from the Waldorf Tower by eastern rather than western fortunes. The Associated Press item goes on to charge that opposition to the United Nations smacks of "anti-Semitism, anti-racial equality and with all the overtones we have learned to expect from hate-mongers."

Not one word does the A. P. offer to prove that "large southwest fortunes" are doing this or that opposition to the United Nations is evidence of any of the vicious motives charged in the handout.

On the contrary, the A. P. has access to proof that Goldsmith's fronts, backed by eastern millions, have used contributions to swing elections in Nevada and other small states.

KEEP COMMUNITY CLEAN

Keeping our community clean is an important duty and one that we share with our elected officials. Conducive to our health, happiness and comfort, it is a community responsibility which should be participated in by every citizen.

Cooperative efforts to give communities a thorough cleaning at least once a year were undertaken by most American cities a number of years ago. Their purpose, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, was to teach the importance of continuous cleanliness in and about the home.

At first the campaign was devoted to ridding homes and yards of rubbish and waste that had accumulated during the winter months. Later the campaigns were spread over a period of a week or longer and now not only is an effort made to collect and cart away the winter's accumulation of waste, but many communities also undertake programs of fire prevention education, fly and mosquito extermination and home beautification. Cellars, attics, backyards, vacant lots, alleys, streets—in fact every spot in the city, whether on public or private property, comes under scrutiny by public officials and citizens' committees.

In recent years the movement has spread so rapidly that today practically every city has a spring campaign, some repeating the effort in the fall, during Fire Prevention Week. Many others make a continuing year-'round campaign.

Since we individually in this community stand to benefit greatly from this activity, we should do our share of the work. Then the rewards of health, happiness and comfort will result.

FOR EQUAL SCHOOLING

Mississippi is doing something about the long-time racial discrimination in its public schools. A potent argument which has been at least partly responsible for the court outlawing of segregation has been that the facilities provided for Negroes have been far inferior to those for whites. The Senate has just passed a bill appropriating $50,000,000 to equalize schools for the two races. The House has already passed the bill, but it must return there to iron out a difference in phrasing. The legislation is to carry out an equalization program, agreed to last year.

Fifty million dollars is a large sum for a state with as little wealth as Mississippi. The appropriation of such a sum shows that citizens are serious about their responsibility to their Negro residents. Perhaps if they had taken this action before, the movement to abolish segregation would have made less headway. They didn't, but have done it now and will probably gain in every way from their decision.

UNFORTUNATE CONFUSION

Vice President Nixon's "off-the-record" remarks about the possibility of sending our troops to Indo-China, in the event that the French withdraw from the fighting there, were ill-timed and unfortunate. With the best intentions in the world, Mr. Nixon contributed to the confusion already in the public mind as to the role we must play in the crisis in Indo-China.

To begin with, the Vice President should have known that his remarks to such a large number of people could not be long kept off the record, that it was inevitable that his name and his statements should have been connected. If he was speaking with the approval of the President and the Secretary of State then he should have spoken for the record; if he was merely expressing his personal opinion, which he said he was, he should have remained silent. It is difficult to convince the public or other countries that when an official in as exalted a position as our Vice President gives an opinion it is not a statement of administration policy.

Secretary of State Dulles may be withholding a clear statement of our policy in Indo-China to keep from tipping our hand to the Reds. If this is his purpose it is understandable. But the administration would do well to keep high officials from making statements which cannot help but add to confusion at a time when confusion can be extremely dangerous.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A FATAL DOCTRINE

Professor Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, who has been very active in the development of the new economics which guided the New Deal, has penned a sentence which requires some comment even while the Senate is probing into who said what to whom, which seems so important to some people that the Chief of Staff of the Army and other top brass can take time off to sit for hours as spectators while a war is going on in Indochina. The learned professor wrote:

"When there are deficits, the business man pulls in his belt. But this is a fatal principle in government. The guiding doctrine should be this: what government does better, or what cannot be done under private auspices, must be done by government. But the new Administration proposes a return to 18th Century principles that would leave undone all but the minimum tasks of government."

The doctrine here enunciated is even new in the New Deal in one part of the argument, namely that "what government does better . . . must be done by government." This is, of course, a total negation of private enterprise. I suppose by "better," the professor means more efficiently, more cheaply, more adequately. It is not beyond belief that the Government could dispense cigars more efficiently and even more cheaply than the thousands of cigar stores that compete against each other for my custom.

The government-owned installations could make up the difference by not paying taxes; by putting in low-priced civil service workers who would be forbidden to strike by law and whose only hope for the future lay in a pension; by taking the sites for factories and stores from private owners by the law of eminent domain; by making up deficits out of taxes; and finally, by abolishing cigars as against the common interest.

This is the efficiency of slavery, not of free men. Apparently Professor Harris would not have the Government perform minimum tasks as Thomas Jefferson held to be right. What are the maximum tasks of government? It could be total control of every function of the individual in society, the ownership of all property and the control of each person, from the cradle to the grave. Such a society now exists in the Soviet Universal State. Its most developed form is in Soviet Russia; its worst form is in Red China. In both these countries, limitations are placed upon the development of the individual which have produced a way of life completely different from ours in which the individual need neither be dependent upon nor cravenly obedient to those who control the power of the state. He can vote them out of office.

It is not a question as to which system is "better," but rather which system a people prefers. Our theory is based on the right of choice, on the right of a people to determine for themselves the kind of government they want. If the American people want Socialism or Communism, they could, by orderly constitutional means, establish such societies. They could amend the Constitution to conform to their ideas.

Professor Harris removes himself from the objectivity of the scholar to the confusions of vitriolic journalism when he writes:

"What the Honest Dollar School proposes is to make the dollar more valuable by reducing the supply. This is at the bottom of the proposals to balance the budget, to cut government spending, to raise the rate of interest, and cut the supply of credit. . . ."

It would seem that the professor cannot relate his thinking to the dangers of inflation, which can wreck such a society as ours. The 53-cent dollar is a peril to us because it dries up the reservoirs of private capital and makes an increasing number of persons dependent upon the State. A 25-cent dollar, a ten-cent dollar, would end not only private enterprise but a free society. The so-called "Honest Dollar," an excellent term, hopes to reestablish the value of the dollar, the purchasing power of the dollar so that families may be enabled to save money, to reduce debt and to invest for the future. Is such a program wrong? Is it justified to say, as Professor Harris does say, that such a dollar will produce "blood-letting, bankruptcy, and liquidation"?

BED WETTING—ENURESIS

I write often about bed wetting (enuresis) because it means so much to child and parents to have this embarrassing condition corrected or greatly improved. A youngster who cannot visit young friends for a single night or weekend is greatly handicapped in his everyday life yet a great many can so adjust their habits that life is made much less miserable.

While some may have the idea that an operation can bring about a cure, an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association states that anatomical or physiological abnormalities are present in only about 3 per cent of those affected and since these can be treated by specific measures, physicians have found that establishing certain regular habits in which the parents can supervise, gives the best positive results in the treatment of bed wetting. "In any child, if reached three and one-half years, training is likely to be difficult."

The causes of loss of bladder control at night are varied and range from laziness to psychic (emotional) disturbances.

Drs. Holt and Holland, outstanding chidren's specialists, state that bed wetting is purely a habit, often associated with other habits that go with an unstable personality. Other specialists say that there is a strong family tendency commonly observed in these patients and they maintain an irritable bladder throughout life although they no longer wet the bed.

That there is some psychic or emotional underlying cause in some cases is stated by Drs. E. C. Turton and A. B. Spear because they found that electroencephalograms (which register the movements of the brain) did not give the usual findings in enuresis. These two research workers obtained electroencephalograms on 100 children with enuresis and found 22 with tracings showing epilepsy, 28 with immature tracings on the borderline of abnormality. For this reason they concluded that many enuretics who do not respond to treatment has unsuspected physical basis for their disorder and that the electroencephalogram is an aid in the diagnosis.

Because the desire to urinate depends on the pressure within the bladder rather than on the amount of fluid, Drs. J. F. O'Malley and R. H. Owens in the Missouri Medical Association Journal some weeks ago reported that Banthine, by removing this pressure in the bladder, gave the patients great relief.

I have written before about an alarm apparatus that wakened the individual at stated periods and thus prevented bed wetting.

I have also written about using a salt sandwich before the child went to bed. The salt holds the liquid in the tissues until the morning.

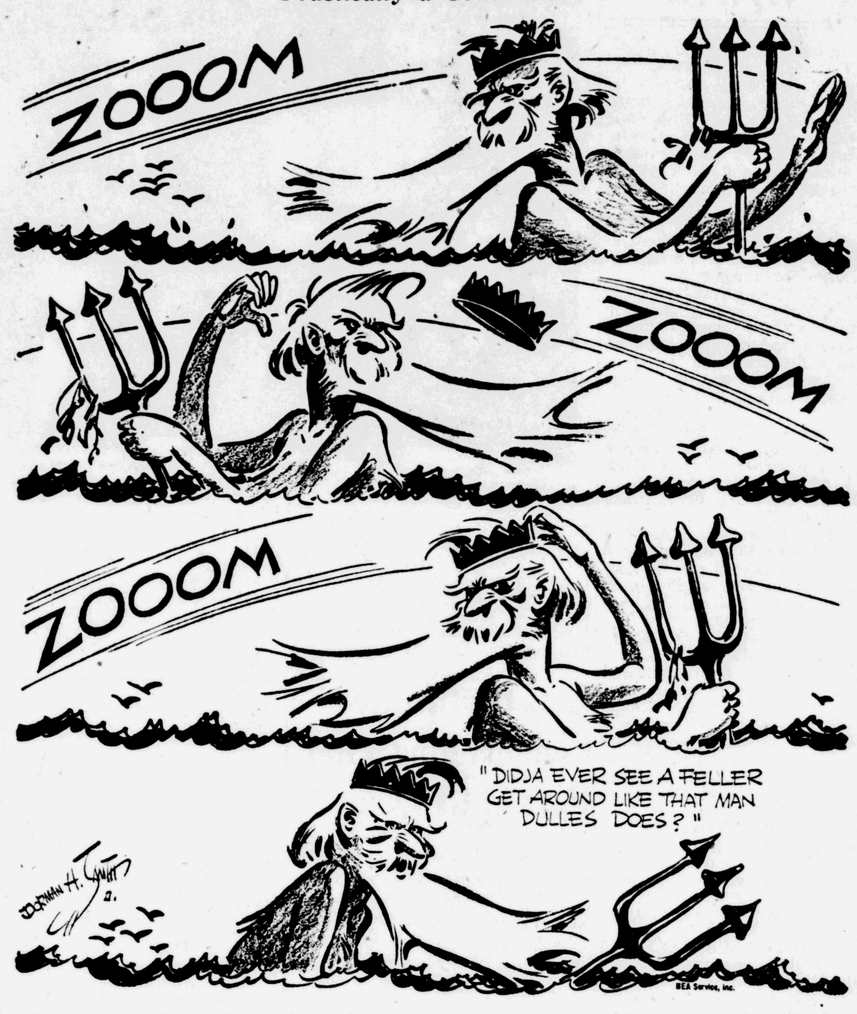

The editorial makes the final statement that the chief cause of failures in the treatment of enuresis is the poor cooperation of parents.

Practically a Commuter

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—There is a far bigger issue to the current investigations of Federal Housing Administration irregularities than shows on the surface. It is how much of an "incentive" private business needs to do a public service job in the national interest?

A lot of words have been spouted to the effect that government should get out of all business-type activities and leave everything to private enterprise.

But the experience of government over the last 20 years has shown that unless private enterprise is guaranteed a handsome profit on public service it will not take the job.

* * *

This is true not only with regard to various government housing programs, but to national defense and even farming.

It applies to the accelerated tax amortization plans in effect since the beginning of World War II. They were considered necessary to provide business with an incentive to tackle defense production.

It applies to the huge depreciation allowances given oil and gas producers in one of the largest loopholes in existing tax law.

It applies to the huge subsidies given American ship builders and shipping line operators. These incentives are considered necessary to maintain an American merchant marine in peacetime so that it will be available for military transport in time of war. Proposed legislation now before Congress would even increase these incentives.

It applies also to the newly proposed incentives to business in pending tax reform legislation. These incentives include a reduction of taxes on dividends, a change in depreciation allowance schedules for tax purposes, and tax reductions on income from foreign investments made in support of U. S. foreign policy to aid the economic development of friendly, non-Communist countries.

* * *

Biggest of all the incentives given to private enterprise is of course the farm price support program. Price supports were originally introduced during the depression to assure farmers of a minimum income. The incentives were increased in wartime to guarantee the farmers high income for producing bumper crops for the war effort.

It is now virtually impossible to reduce these support-price levels, even though they provide an incentive to produce farm surpluses in excess of the demand, at a cost of billions of dollars to the taxpayers and at an actual waste.

The question on all these incentives is, how big do they have to be to make the so-called private enterprise system function?

The obvious answer is that no businessman or anybody else is going to risk money on an enterprise if he thinks he'll lose his shirt at it. That is just plain horse sense.

But does there have to be an opportunity for unlimited profits by unscrupulous operators and racketeers?

* * *

The answer to the war profiteers of World War 1 was the renegotiation act of World War 2. It enabled the government to recapture excessive profits on defense contracts. It would seem to be no more than simple justice to provide a renegotiation clause for housing contractors receiving the benefits of government insured mortgages.

An examination of congressional hearings on the house legislation now under investigation reveals that Congress knowingly made allowances for overgenerous profits to the building industry. This legislation was renewed by Congress in 10 different laws.

Listen to what ex-Congressman Albert M. Cole (R., Kan.) said about this program in 1949: "I agree that a political football has been made out of these housing bills. But Titiles I, II and VI of the FHA are not controversial. They are practically agreed on by all members of the House."

This is the same Mr. Cole who now, as Housing and Home Finance Administrator, kicked off this great housing scandal and is asking Congress for $250,000 to investigate the irregularities developed under these extra-incentive programs.

Military Men Are Skeptical About Line Establishing Indochina Cease-Fire

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Geneva, April 30—If somebody can draw a line inside Indochina that is militarily defensible and does not mean the entering wedge for an infiltration of the whole area by Communists, a cease-fire can be worked out at this conference. That is what President Eisenhower described as a "modus vivendi," which is an old diplomatic phrase meaning a mode of living with a disagreeable and unsolvable situation.

But the military men of the French High Command and of the United States are skeptical as to whether such a line can be found. If the diplomats want a military line submitted merely as a way out of their political difficulties, it can be drawn. There isn't any use deceiving anybody, however, for such a truce line will become the effective partition line, and ultimately can mean the acquisition of all Indochina by the Communists.

The optimistic doctrine is being handed out in some quarters here that, while the cease-fire is in effect and discussions are dragging along for a year or two as to a political conference to be held at some subsequent date, there will be an opportunity to train local troops to safeguard the independence of the three new states. All this would mean that, like Korea, Indochina would have a truce line and the fighting would be over. But the moment the Communists find out that the allies here are ready to throw in the sponge at some designated truce line, the price will go up. The Communists will insist on a line even more advantageous to them, and the haggling here may go on for weeks on that point.

Meanwhile, Secretary Dulles has announced that he is going back to Washington on Tuesday. The effect may be to speed up the conversations looking toward possible agreements because, if there is to be a long wrangle, the secretary would prefer to have his deputy here while he exercises freedom of action in giving from Washington the necessary instructions to the American delegation.

It has been evident for some time that the sole purpose of the Communists in coming to this conference was to try to make some kind of trade in the Indo-China situation which would relieve Moscow of the burden of military supply to southeast Asia and yet achieve for them practical control of the area. Judging by the public speeches made thus far, the Communists have not the slightest intention of agreeing now to any plan for the unification of Korea, though they will pay lip service to the principal of unification. Their concept is to have elections of the kind they proposed for Germany, and the net effect of such plan would be to acquire control of all Korea for the Communists.

It was regrettable that Robert Casey, foreign secretary of Australia, in his speech—which was really noncommittal on the North Korean plan for a general election of all Korea—allowed himself to be placed in the position where the Communists could use his address as an argument that the western alliance was weakening in its attitude toward a continuance of the South Korean Republic as the entity created by the United Nations. Any tendency here on the part of the western allies to accept, even by inference, the notion that the two parts of Korea can be combined by a general election with all outside "interference," as the Communists call any UN supervision of elections, prohibited is bound to stir up Syngman Rhee and complicate matters in Korea itself. It is reminiscent of the "coalition" type of settlements which were supposed to produce an independent Poland and Czechoslovakia and resulted only in their complete subjugation by the Communists.

The envoys of the western allies are supposed not to be naive but fully aware of the facts of Communists.

The envoys of the western allies are supposed not to be naive but fully aware of the facts of Communist strategy. The Ameridan delegation analyzed the North Korean proposals and rejected them out of hand.

The United States is opposed in principle to a partition of Indochina but it prepared to express its views only after some concrete proposal is at hand. If such a proposal is unsatisfactory to America, yet is pressed by the French and they are prepared to surrender their influence in Indo-China by accepting a truce line that will in effect become a permanent partition, the United States will express its dissenting views and then take a look at the whole European situation as well as the southeastern Asian problem and decide its future course. The question to determine will be whether America has faithful allies who will stand up against the Communists when the chips are down or whether France, for instance, is ready to accept permanent dismemberment of free countries wherever Communist aggression has taken away territory not only in Asia but in Europe, particularly in Germany. This could mean some day a recrudescence of militarism in Germany because the people there will never be satisfied to accept a divided country.

Some far-reaching decisions are involved here in the use of the term "partition" and in the phrase "cease-fire." It is possible that the Communists themselves may unwittingly save the day by adopting such an adamant stand as to force the Allies into a union stronger than ever and eventually into a collective-action program which can safeguard southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 29 — From time to time, I have called attention to the furtive political activities of one Arthur J. Goldsmith, who maintains mysterious political offices in the Waldorf Tower but never mentions the Tower as his political address, giving only the street number instead. When I say he is furtive and mysterious I refer to the fact that when I telephoned to ask about his political societies, he clammed up on me. He added, however, that he would answer questions put in writing, but when some questions were submitted in writing which any straightforward man should have been willing to answer, he ignored my inquiry.

Later, during the presidential campaign of 1952, I learned that General Eisenhower's brother, Arthur, the Kansas City banker, had holed up in the Waldorf in close proximity to Goldsmith and that Arthur was having "conferences" with him. Arthur Eisenhower, on the telephone, refused to discuss his relations with Goldsmith, even going so far as to charge in an abusive manner that I was preparing to misrepresent his activities and those of his new-found friend.

A few months later, in the dark of the moon, persons unknown and apparently not too proud of their feat, persuaded President-elect Eisenhower to sign a "testimonial" praising Goldsmith for no known reason. Representatives Case and Scott, and Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, who were implicated, all told evasive and conflicting stories.

Mystery is characteristic of all Goldsmith's politics and mystery is always a challenge to a reporter and to people who learn that they are being worked upon by designing strangers from afar. To emphasize the mysterious quality of this schemer and his several layouts, let me add that Martin Quigley, a publisher of movie magazines and a Catholic of rather pretentious aspect, refused to discuss his connection with one of the Goldsmith fronts by phone and that George Fielding Eliot, who also threw in with one layout, daredme, in a bellowing voice, to call him a Communist when I called up to talk things over. I don't know why he wanted me to call him a Communist.

I have shown that it is a part of Goldsmith's scheme to slip money into states where relatively few votes will elect senators and representatives who agree with him. He is a New Yorker with two senators, Ives and Lehman, to represent him, but he has the effrontery to horn into other states for the plain purpose of frustrating the franchise of the citizens thereof. To that purpose, in 1950 he "supported" George Franklin, Jr., a young Nevada lawyer with a decent war record, against Pat McCarran and brought him on to New York for a little term of coaching and discussion. McCarran was damned in that campaign because he had fought for the exclusion and deportation of Communists in two laws governing immigration and security. For that patriotic service he has been put to the most indecent abuse, all directed from the eastern seaboard, that any man has suffered in American politics in the current era with the sole exception of Joe McCarthy and for the same general reasons. An eastern woman who was sojourning in Las Vegas accompanied Mr. Franklin on his political pilgrimage to Goldsmith's New York headquarters although no reflection on their personal deportment is intended to be inferred.

Only recently, a propogandist in The New Yorker wrote the revealing observation that "a free paper in Nevada with a circulation of 25,000 could swing two seats in the Senate," That is the key to the strategy of eastern political societies which for some years have been quietly sluicing money into less populous states, including, specifically, New Hampshire, where Goldsmith sent money to elect the late Senator Tobey. The "free" paper which the New Yorker was extolling in Las Vegas whose editor, a registered ex-convict and press-agent for the Buggsy Siegal underworld mob, has been vilifying both McCarran and McCarthy, and recently was indicted by the federal jury on a charge of criminal violation of the postal laws in inciting the assassination of McCarthy.

I would here like to nail an item put out by The Associated Press last May 24 quoting a handout from a letterhead layout called The American Association for the United Nations. This handout said "a campaign of misrepresentation is being directed against the UN apparently backed by large southwest fortunes."

Continuing, the item said: "This charge was contained in a letter by Clark M. Eichelberger, executive director of the association, to its chapters throughout the country. The organization * * * is headed by William Emerson, of Boston, and one of its honorary presidents is Sumner Welles, former under-secretary of state. * * *

Not one word does the A. P. offer to prove that "large southwest fortunes" are doing this or that opposition to the United Nations is evidence of any of the vicious motives charged in the handout.

Local Bat Factory Works for Major Sluggers

Bats Made at Local Plant

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.

Hanna Wood Products, Inc., of Lake Katrine is batting 1000 per cent.

The fact is, they make bats—about two freight carloads a month. Well, not bats exactly, but "billets," which is about the next thing to a bat. Each carload contains about 10,000 billets.

By the time the plant's 18 employes get through sawing and shaping the wood, which is of ash, it is round, 42 inches long and either two and a half or three inches in diameter, depending on the type of bat to be made. In this form it is called a billet.

Finished in Georgia

The billets are then freighted to The Hanna Manufacturing Company of Athens, Ga., for final lathe work and finishing—and a mighty handsome bat it is.

Herbert Bates of Miller's Lane, foreman at the plant, one of four operated by the company, pulled one of the finished "clubs" from a corner of the office. The trademark is Hanna Batrite—a real beauty of dark golden color with an enviable straight grain.

According to Mrs. William Tacorchick, wife of the manager of the plant, this particular bat was made from an ash tree discovered by Tacorchick near his home.

One major league ballplayer, delighted with its weight, grain and balance, offered as much as $35 for it. It was made at the Athens plant at the special request of Tacorchick, however, with his name inscribed on it, and for this reason he declined to sell.

Stacked to Rafters

The huge shed in which the plant, established in 1945, operates is stacked to the rafters with billets, "flitches," "dowels," dimension stock for furniture, etc. The ash for the bats is taken from forests within a radius of approximately 100 miles of Kingston and trucked to the Hanna plant.

Billets made by the local plant find their way to sandlots and diamonds all over the country.

The cry, "Batter up!" in the Major Leagues will always find some Batrites waving menacingly at opposing pitchers, the solid ash producing its share of base pokes. This is the high-grade stuff.

There is also a low-grade ash billet from which cheaper bats are made, including toy bats.

The men at the plant are "trained" to know the best quality ash and seek to cut the wood in such a way that it provides the straightest grain possible. Curiously enough, ash from different geographic localities may have different weights.

Some Used a Rollers

Billets which are found defective are often sold to granite quarries and furniture movers, etc., to be used as rollers. The "off-falls" or waste edgings of the ash is sold for various purposes, such as fuel. The local plant uses this material and sawdust to fire its boiler.

In addition to the billets and the dimension stock for furniture the plant supplies dowels for use as handles of farm implements, etc., such as handles of shovels, pitchforks, etc.

To follow the plant operation briefly:

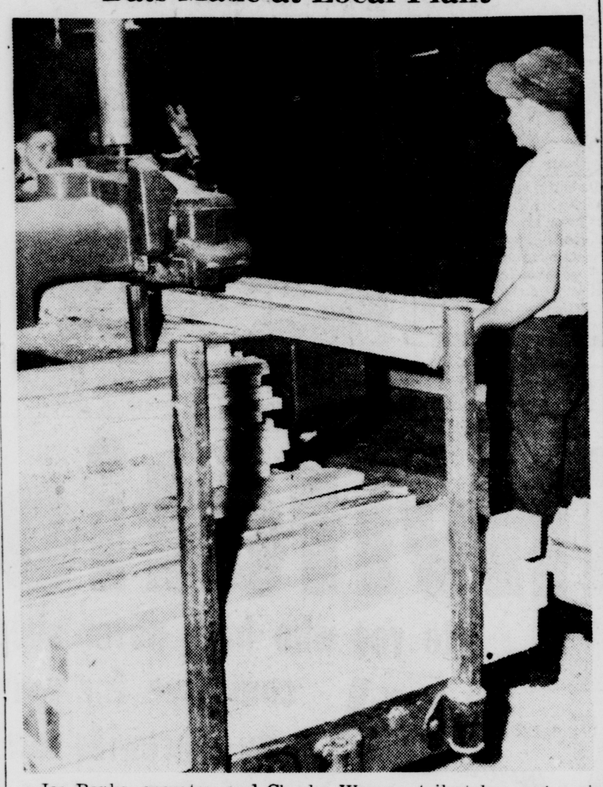

The logs (Northern White Ash) are rolled from the side of a truck to a ramp from which they are loaded to a cart drawn on tracks into the plant.

Cutting Process

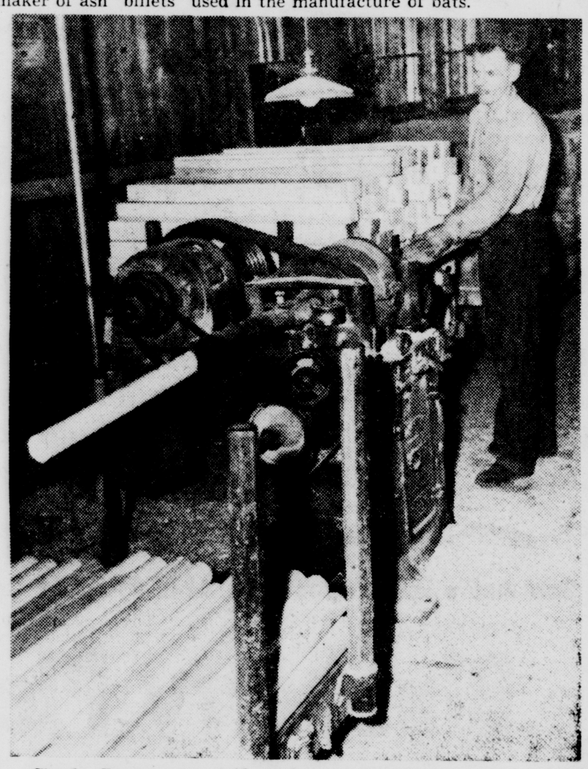

First the log is cut into sections 42 inches long. These sections are called "bolts." By means of a tremendous saw 52 inches in diameter the bolts are cut into "flitches," either two and a half or three inches thick.

The three-inch thickness will be used for the larger bat used in big-time ball. The smaller thickness will be used for the junior league softball bat.

The flitches are cut into pieces either two and a half or three inches square. These pieces in turn are rounded on a doweling machine. Then they go to a double-ended trim saw where they are graded and, finally, sprayed with paraffin to seal the ends which will keep the ends from "popping"—that is, cracking.

Joe Banks, operator, and Charles Weaver, tail stoker, put a rip saw through its paces at Hanna Wood Products, Inc., Lake Katrine, maker of ash "billets" used in the manufacture of bats.

Charles Benson, one of 18 employes at the plant, operates a dowel machine which rounds the wood in one of the later operations.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Stop Dogging It, Gentlemen

Like all grown men who like to play with trains, I have been following the battle between William White and Robert R. Young for control of the New York Central Railroad. Money, as I always say, is for spending, and if Mr. Young wants another railroad to play with, there's no reason why he shouldn't have it. After all, you only live once.

Actually, thought, I'm not losing much sleep about the White-Young squabble for, though both seem like estimable gentlemen, neither shapes up to me as champion railroad material. To be sure, the newspapers have been playing them up as reincarnations of the financial swashbucklers of the last century, but to any student of old-time railroading, their fracas is like a pillow fight in a girl's dormitory.

There goes Rose again, I can hear someone say, getting misty-eyed about the past. Maybe so, but before you turn to the crossword puzzle, let me tell you about a fight for control back in the days when men were men and railroads were expendable. . . .

Ever hear of the old Albany & Susquehanna which ran from where Governor Dewey now bunks to Binghamton, N. Y.? Well, in 1869 a couple of sports named Jim Fisk and Jay Gould got bored one Thursday afternoon and decided to take the line away from the man who controlled it—old J. Pierpont Morgan himself.

Like Young and White, these buckos started their campaign real legal-like by trying to round up enough stock and proxies to vote themselves in. However, all they succeeded in getting was one-half of the line—a 50-mile stretch on the Binghamton end. Morgan managed to hold on to the Albany end, and the result was an old-fashioned impasse.

At this point, Jim and Jay stopped being so legal like. They hired 30 gentlemen with muscles and switch knives and marched to Albany prepared to take over the terminal, lock, stock and roundhouse. Old man Morgan, however, a pretty good infighter himself, had gotten wind of the plan and hired 40 gentlemen with muscles and switch knives. When Fisk barged into the main office, Morgan's men beat the bejabbers out of him and threw him downstairs. As the financier reported to his board the following Monday, "Nothing changed hands but a few heads."

But that, as a wag once put it, was only the beginning. Fisk decided to take legal action, and legal action, in his lexicon, meant just one thing—buying a judge. After shopping around, he selected a fair and forthright jurist named Bernard and moved him into the New York apartment of Josie Mansfield, the actress. Josie saw to it that His Honor was wined, dined and had his shoes shined, and all she asked in return was that he sober up sufficiently once a day to sign the various writs and injunctions which Fisk placed before him.

J. Pierpont countered this move by disregarding the legal papers with a fine air of "Sez-you."

What happened next? Did the combatants retire to their oak-paneled suites and call each other nasty names in full-page ads? No indeed, sir! They had good red blood running in their veins and they acted as any good red-blooded men would under the circumstances. Morgan loaded 400 bully-boys on a string of flatcars behind a locomotive, and sent them off to Binghamton with instructions to capture every enemy way station and, finally, the Binghamton terminal itself.

Fisk and Gould promptly decided on an equally red-blooded program. Matching thug for thug and flatcar for flatcar, they sent an equal powerful locomotive roaring toward Albany.

The A. & S., it so happened, was a single-track line, and when the two locomotives rounded ends of the same bend, what ensued was a glorious page in the annals of American railroading. With full heads of steam, whistles screeching and bells dinging, the iron monsters came straight at each other without benefit of brakes. And when cowcatcher met cowcatcher, the soul-satisfying crash was heard as far as the Canadian border.

Score: The Morgan engine was thrown clear of the rails and fell over on its side. The Fisk locomotive, its front caved in and leaking steam from every pore, remained proudly on the tracks.

Now, if there were such a thing as poetic justice in railroading, that would have settled Morgan's hash. But it didn't. By some miracle, J. P.'s bullyboys were only shaken up, and they immediately went to work on the Fisk forces with clubs, knives and teeth. Outgamed, the bums from Binghamton beat a strategic retreat, testily ripping up rails and tearing down bridges as they went.

Thus ended the battle for the Albany & Susquehanna. Fisk and Gould surrendered with dignity and dispatch, and sold their stock to Morgan at a modest profit of 100 per cent.

Were they downhearted? No siree. They had accomplished their aim, which was to fill in a boring Thursday. . . .

Therefore, considering the great traditions of American railroading, I would suggest that, if the Messrs. White and Young are serious and not just playing railroad, they call off their proxy party on May 26 and settle their differences in the time-honored way: locomotives at 200 paces. The man still walking after the crash would obviously be the one to run the New York Central.

Local Bat Factory Works for Major Sluggers

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.

Hanna Wood Products, Inc., of Lake Katrine is batting 1000 per cent.

The fact is, they make bats—about two freight carloads a month. Well, not bats exactly, but "billets," which is about the next thing to a bat. Each carload contains about 10,000 billets.

By the time the plant's 18 employes get through sawing and shaping the wood, which is of ash, it is round, 42 inches long and either two and a half or three inches in diameter, depending on the type of bat to be made. In this form it is called a billet.

Finished in Georgia

The billets are then freighted to The Hanna Manufacturing Company of Athens, Ga., for final lathe work and finishing—and a mighty handsome bat it is.

Herbert Bates of Miller's Lane, foreman at the plant, one of four operated by the company, pulled one of the finished "clubs" from a corner of the office. The trademark is Hanna Batrite—a real beauty of dark golden color with an enviable straight grain.

According to Mrs. William Tacorchick, wife of the manager of the plant, this particular bat was made from an ash tree discovered by Tacorchick near his home.

One major league ballplayer, delighted with its weight, grain and balance, offered as much as $35 for it. It was made at the Athens plant at the special request of Tacorchick, however, with his name inscribed on it, and for this reason he declined to sell.

Stacked to Rafters

The huge shed in which the plant, established in 1945, operates is stacked to the rafters with billets, "flitches," "dowels," dimension stock for furniture, etc. The ash for the bats is taken from forests within a radius of approximately 100 miles of Kingston and trucked to the Hanna plant.

Billets made by the local plant find their way to sandlots and diamonds all over the country.

The cry, "Batter up!" in the Major Leagues will always find some Batrites waving menacingly at opposing pitchers, the solid ash producing its share of base pokes. This is the high-grade stuff.

There is also a low-grade ash billet from which cheaper bats are made, including toy bats.

The men at the plant are "trained" to know the best quality ash and seek to cut the wood in such a way that it provides the straightest grain possible. Curiously enough, ash from different geographic localities may have different weights.

Some Used a Rollers

Billets which are found defective are often sold to granite quarries and furniture movers, etc., to be used as rollers. The "off-falls" or waste edgings of the ash is sold for various purposes, such as fuel. The local plant uses this material and sawdust to fire its boiler.

In addition to the billets and the dimension stock for furniture the plant supplies dowels for use as handles of farm implements, etc., such as handles of shovels, pitchforks, etc.

To follow the plant operation briefly:

The logs (Northern White Ash) are rolled from the side of a truck to a ramp from which they are loaded to a cart drawn on tracks into the plant.

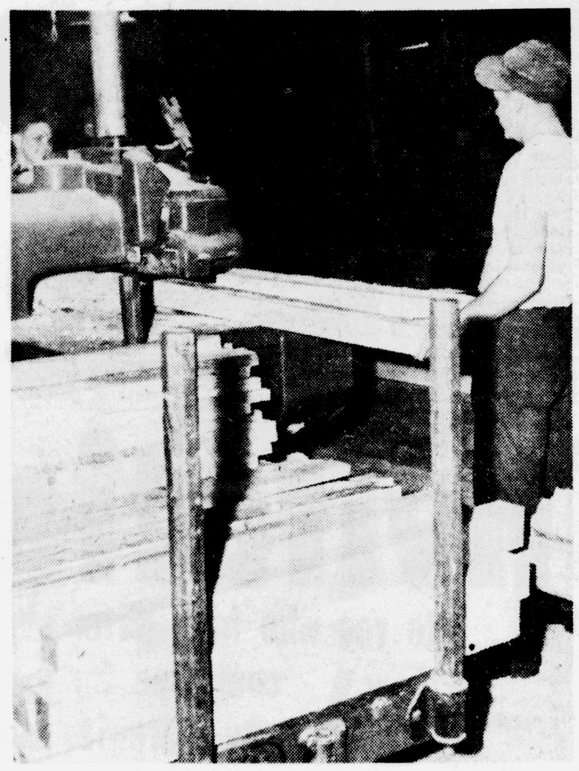

Cutting Process

First the log is cut into sections 42 inches long. These sections are called "bolts." By means of a tremendous saw 52 inches in diameter the bolts are cut into "flitches," either two and a half or three inches thick.

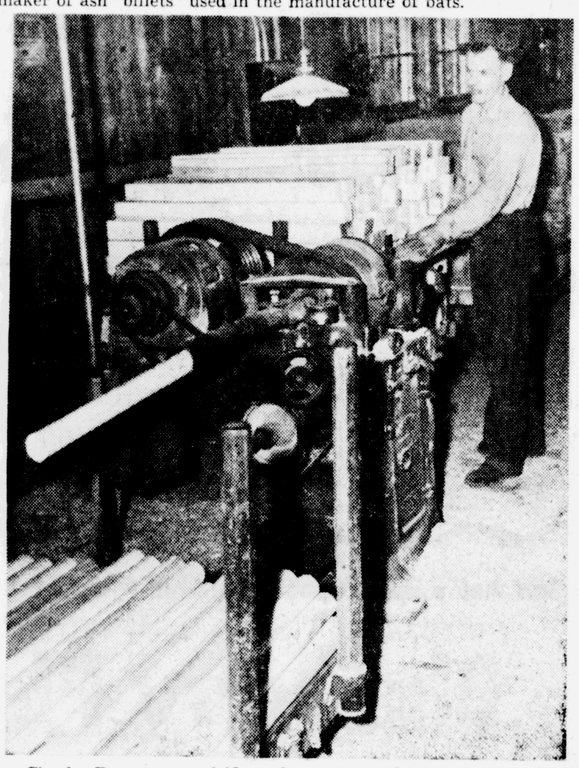

The three-inch thickness will be used for the larger bat used in big-time ball. The smaller thickness will be used for the junior league softball bat.

The flitches are cut into pieces either two and a half or three inches square. These pieces in turn are rounded on a doweling machine. Then they go to a double-ended trim saw where they are graded and, finally, sprayed with paraffin to seal the ends which will keep the ends from "popping"—that is, cracking.

Bats Made at Local Plant

Joe Banks, operator, and Charles Weaver, tail stoker, put a rip saw through its paces at Hanna Wood Products, Inc., Lake Katrine, maker of ash "billets" used in the manufacture of bats.

Charles Benson, one of 18 employes at the plant, operates a dowel machine which rounds the wood in one of the later operations.

Saugerties, April 30—James H. Overbaugh, New York State Game Protector of the Saugerties area issued a statement today clarifying a general misunderstanding in regard to license requirements.

"There seems to be some misunderstanding in regards to fishing licenses for angling in the waters of the Esopus Creek. No license is required to fish by angling in the waters of the Hudson river below the Troy Dam. All other waters, require an angling or fishing license.

"For fishing in the Esopus Creek like all other creeks emptying into the Hudson river, a license is required because it is not a part of the Hudson river. The term tide water is used only in connection with licenses for netting."

Boy Scout News

Saugerties, April 30—The Cub Scouts of Pack 130 Tuesday evening presented a clever theme entitled Oil.

Highlight of the meeting was presentation of awards to Cubs. The awards, made by Hubert Legg, assistant cubmaster, included Frank Tiano, Wolf Badge; Joseph McManus, Bear Badge and Gold Arrow; Terry McLaughlin, Lion Badge; Albert Giannotti, Lion Badge and Webelos; William Smith, Lion Badge and Webelos and Hilton Long, Wolf Badge and Gold Arrow.

Three boys were graduated into Boy Scout Troops during an impressive investiture ceremony. Scoutmaster Kenneth Maclary of Troop 32 inducted Terry McLaughlin into that troop while Anthony Francello, den chief of Troop 36, inducted Albert Giannotti and William Smith into Troop 36. The Cubs gave the traditional Grand Howl for the graduates.

INDO-CHINA — The World's Oldest War (11) — By Walter Parkes and Ralph Lane

The French were in a real jam. Their troops were battle-weary, ridden by tropical disease. So battle-wise Gen. Jean de Lattre was rushed over to stem the Red tide. His army contained 210,000 troops, of which about 42,000 were white, native-born French, 60,000 loyal Viet Namese and the rest Foreign Legionnaires, North Africans and other colonials.

By November, 1951, De Lattre had stopped the Reds cold. But in January, 1952, he died. His successor, Gen. Raoul Salan, sat tight. In September, 1953, he was replaced by Gen. Henri-Eugene Navarre, not much more effective. The war degenerated into guerrilla fighting. But early in 1954, the Viet Minhs drove hard for an important victory to strengthen their hand at the Geneva Conference.

On the home front, it was a war of attrition. Worn down was the French people's will to win, even their will to fight. Worn down, too, were France's military manpower and financial reserves. "Negotiated peace" was whispered, then spoken, then shouted. Climax came when France made the issue an international responsibility by getting Indo-China high on the agenda of the Geneva Conference.

Built With Radium

It is said that the 300,000 tons of material used in the construction of the Empire State Building, in New York city, contained about $17,000 worth of radium.

Overbaugh Clarifies License Requirements

Saugerties, April 30—James H. Overbaugh, New York State Game Protector of the Saugerties area issued a statement today clarifying a general misunderstanding in regard to license requirements.

"There seems to be some misunderstanding in regards to fishing licenses for angling in the waters of the Esopus Creek. No license is required to fish by angling in the waters of the Hudson river below the Troy Dam. All other waters, require an angling or fishing license.

"For fishing in the Esopus Creek like all other creeks emptying into the Hudson river, a license is required because it is not a part of the Hudson river. The term tide water is used only in connection with licenses for netting."

Nation's Food Supply May Surpass 1953

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today food supplies for late spring and early summer may be even more plentiful than the bountiful supplies of 1953.

It said Americans are likely to eat more chicken, eggs and dairy products than a year earlier, with output of these products high and prices lower.

Supplies of meat will be somewhat below the high level of last spring because of a cutback in the pig crop last fall, the department said in a report on the national food situation. But marketings of hogs are expected to be heavier later in the year, reflecting a larger pig crop this spring, the report said.

Planting surveys were said to indicate that spring vegetable and melon production this year will be above last year, but that the spring crops of strawberries and peaches in the south will be off.

The department said supplies of some fishery products and lard will be smaller, but plentiful supplies of alternative foods will be available.

Demand for food is expected to continue strong the next few months. Retail prices for many cereal products and fats and oils other than butter probably will continue a little above those of last spring, the report said.

Cub Pack 15 Meets

Cub Pack 15 sponsored by the Reformed Church of the Comforter held its monthly pack meeting in Comforter Hall Wednesday night, under the direction of George Chipchase, cubmaster. The theme for the month, Black Gold, was portrayed by a series of exhibits by the dens depicting the oil fields and their long pipe lines, an oil distribution center with its means of disposition and finally a display of the many products that are obtained from oil and its by-products. First hand experience in the construction of these displays had been obtained through a visit to the local bulk oil plant owned and operated by the Newcombe Oil Company of Kingston. The boys from each of the dens were given a conducted tour of the plant showing operations of oil and gasoline from the large river barges to the home and station reception.

The presentation of awards was made by Assistant Cubmaster William Bush. The awards were given as follows: Den 1, Mrs. George Chipchase, Den Mother, Henry Field, one Silver Arrow, Ronald Thomas, one Silver Arrow, Robert Chipchase a Lion Badge, a Gold Arrow and a Silver Arrow, James Lawrence, one Silver Arrow and Larry Hamilton, one Gold Arrow; Den 4, Mrs. Richard Stillings, Den Mother, Duane Baxter, a Wolf Badge and a Gold Arrow, John Kelse, one Silver Arrow, Danny Scully, one Silver Arrow, Richard Hummer, a Gold Arrow, Charles Hill a two-year pin, and Edmund Yeager a two-year pin; Den 5, Mrs. Durward Freer, Den Mother, Guy Bush a Silver Arrow and Robert Smith, one Silver Arrow.

Two Join Cubs

A Bob Cat ceremony was conducted by Cubmaster Chipchase for Barry Kelly and William Cole who were received into Pack 15 as Cubs. They were called forward with their parents and took their oaths as Cubs and parents. Also a graduation ceremony was conducted by the Cubmaster to graduate two boys into Boy Scout Troop 15, also sponsored by the Comforter Church. Chester Diffley, Scoutmaster of Troop 15 was present to receive James Lawrence and Richard Stillings into his troop and welcome the parents as new members in Troop 15. Both boys will receive their Tenderfoot pins at a Parents Night-Court of Honor for Troop 15 to be held Tuesday, May 18.

After the distribution of awards, the boys were led in a period of recreation by the den chiefs and the den dads. A parents' meeting was held at the same time and plans were outlined for the future and questions concerning advancements were answered. The theme of the month, Black Gold had a final spotlight when Paul Barnum, Comforter projectionist, showed the picture The Last Ten Feet depicting work in the oil fields and presented through the courtesy of the Socony Vacuum Oil Company and its local representative, M. Hand. The meeting was closed with refreshments.

Cub Pack 19

The age of the dinosaurs returned momentarily to the Veteran of Foreign Wars home, 552 Delaware avenue, Wednesday night as Cub Pack 19 held its first monthly pack meeting on the theme of Black Gold—the history of oil.

The pack meeting recorded 100 per cent attendance of Cub Scouts, and the room was filled with parents of the boys. Displays included scale model evidence of the transportation of oil by railroad, truck, and pipeline; colored maps showing the oil industry, and moulded characterizations of the dinosaurs which allegedly were on the earth at the beginning of time.

The evening's program ended with a motion picture supplied by the Socony Vacuum Oil Company through Eugene Freer and shown by Frank Rittie, pack committee chairman. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, in charge of Den Mother Lillian Rittie and the den chiefs of the pack.

Den 1 received the winning ribbon for the largest dinosaur displayed, while Den 2 and Den 3 were awarded ribbons for the most realistic and the most colorful dinosaur. Den 2 also received a ribbon award for the best colored map of the industry.

Awards of Month

The opening flag ceremony was presented by Den 1 in charge of Den Chiefs Girard White and Phillips Eighmey, and awards for the month were:

Den 1, Mrs. Elizabeth Eighmey, den mother; James Herdman, silver arrow and assistant denner's stripe; John Schleede, denner's stripe; bobcat pins to John Schleede, Robert Buddenhagen and Roger Sahloff;

Den 2, Mrs. Lois Williams, den mother: Michael Bonomo, wolf badge; Jeffrey Williams, 3 silver arrows; Douglas Eighmey, silver arrow; Kerry Covey, silver arrow; bobcat pins to Michael Bonomo and Douw Diehl;

Den 3, Mrs. Lillian Rittie, den mother: Richard Simms, silver arrow; Richard Showers, 2 silver arrows; bobcat pin to Ronald Rittie.

Plans for Pack 19 revealed participation in the Loyalty Day parade in Saugerties Saturday, May 1, as guests of the Saugerties Veteran of Foreign Wars Cub Pack 130; attendance at the local boy scout rally on Tuesday, May 4, with a presentation of the Conservation theme prepared by Den Mother Beatrice Connelly; and plans for the May theme of the month, Mississippi Showboat, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. John Covey.

CWA Official Says Union May Strike

New York, April 30 (AP)—An official of the CIO communications workers of America says the union may strike "at any time" against the Bell Telephone System.

John L. Crull, CWA vice president, said yesterday in a statement:

"We are still seeking peaceful settlements, even though contracts have expired in some places. However, this situation can't go on forever.

"We are not ruling out the possibility of a strike at any time."

The union is in dispute with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its subsidiary companies over demands for an unspecified wage increase and company-paid medical and surgical benefits.

Contracts now under discussion include one between Western Electric and 17,000 members of the CWA who install heavy equipment in 43 states and the District of Columbia. A bargaining session was held here yesterday, with the talks slated to resume today.

Officials at AT & T and Western Electric had no immediate comment in the union statement.

Beside the installers, the union said, contract disputes may affect the following:

Eleven thousand traffic employes in New Jersey; 1,400 Bell laboratories workers in New York city and New Jersey; 6,200 distribution and warehouse workers in Western Electric plants in 29 cities throughout the country; Lincoln, Neb., manufacturing plants; Bell Systems throughout Ohio and Michigan; and in Long Island City, Queens, and in Haverhill, Mass.

Nation's Food Supply May Surpass 1953

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today food supplies for late spring and early summer may be even more plentiful than the bountiful supplies of 1953.

It said Americans are likely to eat more chicken, eggs and dairy products than a year earlier, with output of these products high and prices lower.

Supplies of meat will be somewhat below the high level of last spring because of a cutback in the pig crop last fall, the department said in a report on the national food situation. But marketings of hogs are expected to be heavier later in the year, reflecting a larger pig crop this spring, the report said.

Planting surveys were said to indicate that spring vegetable and melon production this year will be above last year, but that the spring crops of strawberries and peaches in the south will be off.

The department said supplies of some fishery products and lard will be smaller, but plentiful supplies of alternative foods will be available.

Demand for food is expected to continue strong the next few months. Retail prices for many cereal products and fats and oils other than butter probably will continue a little above those of last spring, the report said.

A man who took great pride in his lawn had a fine crop of dandelions. After trying every known device in an effort to get rid of them, he wrote to the Department of Agriculture. He enumerated the things he had tried, and concluded his letter by asking, "What shall I do now?"

In due time he received this reply: "We suggest that you learn to love them."

The number of times the average husband says "yes" in a day depends on how many times the head of his house expresses an opinion.

The young wife greeted her husband affectionately when he returned from the office.

Wife—Poor darling. You must be tired and hungry. Would you like some nice soup, tender chops with golden brown potatoes and green peas and mushrooms on toast?

Husband—No, darling. (firmly) Let's save the money and eat at home.

THE RECORD SHOP: Two singing commercials have gone legitimate. Freddie Martin (RCA) has a record of "Muriel," and Mary Mayo (Benida) has one out on "That Heavenly Feeling," based on the Chock Full o'Nuts coffee jingle.

Even more interesting would be the reverse—making commercials out of pop hits. You could have:

"Somebody bad stole the Flotsam soup."
"Once I had a secret love—Mother Yopnick's egg noodles."
Wanted, someone to try Old Dr. Braunschweig's dandelion pie."
"Here comes the man with the Billygoat Brand stewed oranges."

* * *

Caedmon, the literary-poetry recording house, has two new ones on the way. Judith Anderson reads Edna St. Vincent Millay poems, and Alfred Drake has recorded the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.
A loaf of bread, a long playing record and thou.

* * *

This business of picking out songs to record is a puzzlement. It seems so easy, second-guessing, to finger the hits, but even old-timers can't do it ahead of time with any real regularity.

You'd think Perry Como would have the formula down. The RCA-Victor star makes hit after hit. Everything he sings turns to gold, which is a trick that makes Midas look like a rank apprentice. But even Perry isn't a hot-hit-picker.

"You never know about songs," Perry says. "Sometimes a song will seem like the greatest ever written, but you wind up with the only copy ever sold. 'Wanted,' my current release, didn't impress me at first. I wasn't too hot on it. If they'd taken it off the piano, I wouldn't have cared."

Perry hadn't been having any luck with his recordings until the memorable "Don't Let the Stars Get In Your Eyes" a year or so back.

"It's funny," Perry laughed. "They showed me 'Stars.' I said, 'Are you kidding? If you want me to go back to barbering, this is the way.' But it sold a million, got me a gold record."

Como seems to be making a hobby of collecting gold records. But even that pales; Perry says every so often he has the urge to get away from it all.

"You know," he says, "you've got to do something different once in a while. You get in a rut. But what can I do, take up badminton?

"The other day, I was with Tom Rockwell, the president of General Artists Corp. I told him the same thing. 'I've got to DO something,' I said. Tom said, 'Swell, I've got some concerts lined up for you this summer.' 'Tom,' I said, 'I just got over the feeling.'"

* * *

Jo Stafford is getting a diamond-studded record, to commemorate the sale of her 25,000,000th disc. It's an appropriate award for the Columbia songstress—everything she records is a gem.

* * *

The pop album field is topped by Kapp Record's production of "One God," with narration by Eddie Albert, a stirring job; stirring in another direction is Columbia's issue of Victor Borge's "Comedy In Music," from his Broadway show—a long playing laugh; for background music, try "Music Until Midnight" (Percy Faith and Mitch Miller, Columbia); "A Man and His Music" (Skitch Henderson, Capitol); "Organ Interlude" (Richard Ellsasser, MGM).

Angel's La Scala production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" is notable for two plus features. First, it is an extremely beautiful interpretation, well and sensitively done. Second, instead of filling out the two records with some related music, Angel leaves one side of one record blank. You don't have to pay for something you might not want. It's like old, old times again.

Negro University Has Its 100th Birthday

Oxford, Pa., April 30 (AP)—The world's oldest Negro university, founded before slavery was ended in this country, has turned a proud and progressive 100, its achievements and aims saluted by great men and great schools of many lands.

The birthday candles were lighted yesterday for this pioneer — Lincoln University — in dramatic scenes which converted the usually quiet campus into an excited arena inspiring international interest.

The flow of greetings seemed never-ending. Dr. Horace M. Bond, Lincoln's president, read a message from President Eisenhower, another from Albert Einstein. He told of a thousand more received from schools and scholars abroad, and perhaps as many from well-wishers in the United States.

No Bar to Bridge Toll Collections, Law Firm Advises

The law firm of the New York State Bridge Authority has advised the authority that no federal statute bars the continued collection of tolls on the Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill.

James F. Loughran, chairman of the authority, said today that this was the advice of Lewis Delafield of Hawkins, Delafield and Wood. Delafield advised the authority that a congressional enactment of 1932 rescinded an earlier act of 1930 which had directed that the Catskill bridge be toll-free after 20 years of operation.

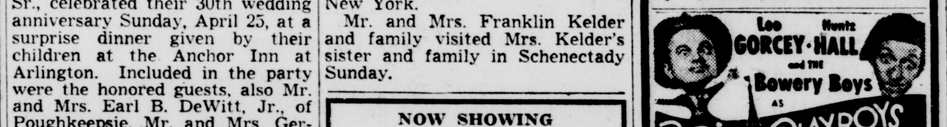

This opinion, Loughran said, was in complete agreement with the view obtained from a committee of Congress, which advised Representative J. Ernest Wharton (R.—30th District) that no further Congressional action is needed to New York state or its authorized agencies.

Senator Herbert H. Lehman had earlier expressed the view that a congressional enactment would be necessary to make it legal to charge tolls after July 2, 1955.

Civil Service Exam

The executive secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for the U. S. Treasury Department has announced an examination for treasury enforcement agent at entrance salaries ranging from $3,410 to $5,060 a year to fill Criminal Investigator positions in the General Investigative and Pharmacy options. These positions are located in the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service, the U. S. Secret Service, the Bureau of Narcotics and the Bureau of Customs. Generally appointments will be probational and become permanent after the satisfactory completion of one year. Most of the appointments to be made are to grade GS-7, $4,205 a year and persons employed may be stationed anywhere in the United States. Application forms and a copy of the announcement of information as to where they may be obtained can be secured from any post office in New York state.

"It's funny," Perry laughed. "They showed me 'Stars.' I said, 'Are you kidding? If you want me to go back to barbering, this is the way.' But it sold a million, got me a gold record."

Como seems to be making a hobby of collecting gold records. But even that pales; Perry says every so often he has the urge to get away from it all.

"You know," he says, "you've got to do something different once in a while. You get in a rut. But what can I do, take up badminton?

"The other day, I was with Tom Rockwell, the president of General Artists Corp. I told him the same thing. 'I've got to DO something,' I said. Tom said, 'Swell, I've got some concerts lined up for you this summer.' 'Tom,' I said, 'I just got over the feeling.'"

* * *

Jo Stafford is getting a diamond-studded record, to commemorate the sale of her 25,000,000th disc. It's an appropriate award for the Columbia songstress—everything she records is a gem.

* * *

The pop album field is topped by Kapp Record's production of "One God," with narration by Eddie Albert, a stirring job; stirring in another direction is Columbia's issue of Victor Borge's "Comedy In Music," from his Broadway show—a long playing laugh; for background music, try "Music Until Midnight" (Percy Faith and Mitch Miller, Columbia); "A Man and His Music" (Skitch Henderson, Capitol); "Organ Interlude" (Richard Ellsasser, MGM).

Angel's La Scala production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" is notable for two plus features. First, it is an extremely beautiful interpretation, well and sensitively done. Second, instead of filling out the two records with some related music, Angel leaves one side of one record blank. You don't have to pay for something you might not want. It's like old, old times again.

Negro University Has Its 100th Birthday

Oxford, Pa., April 30 (AP)—The world's oldest Negro university, founded before slavery was ended in this country, has turned a proud and progressive 100, its achievements and aims saluted by great men and great schools of many lands.

The birthday candles were lighted yesterday for this pioneer — Lincoln University — in dramatic scenes which converted the usually quiet campus into an excited arena inspiring international interest.

The flow of greetings seemed never-ending. Dr. Horace M. Bond, Lincoln's president, read a message from President Eisenhower, another from Albert Einstein. He told of a thousand more received from schools and scholars abroad, and perhaps as many from well-wishers in the United States.

No Bar to Bridge Toll Collections, Law Firm Advises

The law firm of the New York State Bridge Authority has advised the authority that no federal statute bars the continued collection of tolls on the Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill.

James F. Loughran, chairman of the authority, said today that this was the advice of Lewis Delafield of Hawkins, Delafield and Wood. Delafield advised the authority that a congressional enactment of 1932 rescinded an earlier act of 1930 which had directed that the Catskill bridge be toll-free after 20 years of operation.

This opinion, Loughran said, was in complete agreement with the view obtained from a committee of Congress, which advised Representative J. Ernest Wharton (R.—30th District) that no further Congressional action is needed to New York state or its authorized agencies.

Senator Herbert H. Lehman had earlier expressed the view that a congressional enactment would be necessary to make it legal to charge tolls after July 2, 1955.

Alvena Joan Davis, James M. Barton Wedding Solemnized

Miss Alvena Joan Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of 412 East Chester street, and James Martindale Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barton of 2659 West Carson street, Pittsburgh, Pa., were married Saturday at Immanuel Lutheran Church at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Marion Marquart was organist. Mrs. Evelyn Priest was soloist in the selections, Because, The Lord's Prayer, and I Love You Truly. The altar was banked in lilies with other varicolored flowers, with candelabra for added decoration.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace over slipper satin with Queen Ann neckline, and long pointed sleeves. Her bouffant skirt with applique of iridescent beads and seed pearls teminated in a cathedral train. Her veil of silk illusion edged in pyramid lace was caught to a cloche of lace trimmed with iridescent beads and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Marion Cooper of Kingston was maid of honor. Her gown was of orchid nylon net and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a strapless bodice and bouffant skirt of lace worn over a hoop. A lace cape and large matching picture hat completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The attendants were Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson, Mrs. Jacqueline Lay, Miss Marlene Hamilton and Miss Maureen Peters of Kingston. The junior bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Keator and Miss Myrna Winchell, cousins of the bride. They wore gowns of similar style to that of the maid of honor, in pastel colors, and tiny cloches with open brims trimmed with spring flowers matching the gowns. They carried nosegays of spring flowers.

The flower girls were Miss Sharon Lee Fatum and Miss Judith Keator, cousins of the bride. They wore gowns of orchid nylon net over taffeta and carried baskets of yellow roses.

The best man was William Barton, brother of the bridegroom, of Pittsburgh. The ushers were Robert Barton, George Caddy, Benjamin Flock, Taggart Williamson, Robert Burnett, Richard Truex, John Smith and Kieth Dimerick. Randy Reis was the ringbearer.

Following a reception held at The Barn for 133 persons, the bride and bridegroom left on a wedding trip to Canada, Saginaw, Mich., and Pittsburgh. For traveling, the bride wore a blue cashmere suit with a fur collar. On their return, the couple will live on Nicholas street, this city.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and New Paltz Teachers College. Mr. Barton is a graduate of Pittsburgh High School and the University of Pittsburgh. He served in the Navy.

Auxiliary Announces Mortgage Debt Paid For Benedictine Wing

The Easter Ball sponsored by the Ladies' Auxilary of Benedictine Hospital which was held Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel, was "a financial and social success," the committee reported today. A capacity crowd danced to the music of Eddie Lane and orchestra, said to have been "most danceable" by those who attended.

The financial picture is pleasing since the mortgage debt, which the auxiliary shouldered for the new wing of the Benedictine Hospital, can now be paid off in full. This is only one of many projects undertaken by the organization to give voluntary aid to the hospital.

Preceding the social event Saturday, there were several parties held. Among those entertaining guests at their homes were Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Amatrano, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. John J. McCardle.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm of 4 Mountain View avenue are leaving today for their farm in Nittany Valley, Pa., where they will spend the summer.

Junior League Group Will Act in Play Adapted From Story

Students listened with rapt attention the day that Miss Elizabeth Dwyer gave her first graders in School No. 7 a preview of the Junior League play, Richard Brown and the Dragon. Like every good storyteller, she left them in suspense, waiting the arrival of the players next week to dramatize the story with words and actions for the youngsters.

The story was told this way: Richard Brown and the Dragon is a story about the very worst dragon in the world that lived many years ago at the bottom of this little village. The dragon blew fire out of its mouth, smoke out of its ears, flame out of its nostrils and a black cloud then settled permanently over the whole village.

The King of this village was very distressed about this dragon, and the Princess had a problem, too. The King wouldn't let her marry anyone except a knight brave enough to kill the dragon. Many brave knights from all over the world tried and failed.

Finally, a clever young fellow who worked in a hoopery making buckets, decided he would try to slay the dragon. And one night he worked very hard at a very special invention to use against this terrible fiery dragon. All the village people thought he was foolish, but this invention is in use yet today for many things other than dragons.

Not only the students in Miss Dwyer's class, but those other schools throughout the city will have the opportunity to discover for themselves just what this great invention is, when the Junior League Players present their dramatization of this fable next week.

Mrs. June Crosby was soloist in the selection, I Love Thee and Ave Maria, with Donald R. Romme accompanist on the organ.

Auxiliary Announces Mortgage Debt Paid For Benedictine Wing

The Easter Ball sponsored by the Ladies' Auxilary of Benedictine Hospital which was held Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel, was "a financial and social success," the committee reported today. A capacity crowd danced to the music of Eddie Lane and orchestra, said to have been "most danceable" by those who attended.

The financial picture is pleasing since the mortgage debt, which the auxiliary shouldered for the new wing of the Benedictine Hospital, can now be paid off in full. This is only one of many projects undertaken by the organization to give voluntary aid to the hospital.

Preceding the social event Saturday, there were several parties held. Among those entertaining guests at their homes were Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Amatrano, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. John J. McCardle.

Junior League Group Will Act in Play Adapted From Story

Students listened with rapt attention the day that Miss Elizabeth Dwyer gave her first graders in School No. 7 a preview of the Junior League play, Richard Brown and the Dragon. Like every good storyteller, she left them in suspense, waiting the arrival of the players next week to dramatize the story with words and actions for the youngsters.

The story was told this way: Richard Brown and the Dragon is a story about the very worst dragon in the world that lived many years ago at the bottom of this little village. The dragon blew fire out of its mouth, smoke out of its ears, flame out of its nostrils and a black cloud then settled permanently over the whole village.

The King of this village was very distressed about this dragon, and the Princess had a problem, too. The King wouldn't let her marry anyone except a knight brave enough to kill the dragon. Many brave knights from all over the world tried and failed.

Finally, a clever young fellow who worked in a hoopery making buckets, decided he would try to slay the dragon. And one night he worked very hard at a very special invention to use against this terrible fiery dragon. All the village people thought he was foolish, but this invention is in use yet today for many things other than dragons.

Not only the students in Miss Dwyer's class, but those other schools throughout the city will have the opportunity to discover for themselves just what this great invention is, when the Junior League Players present their dramatization of this fable next week.

New Paltz State Baseball Nine Plays 1954 Opener Saturday

Albany State Helps Dedicate New Stadium

Nine Returning Vets Boost Diamond Hopes

New Paltz State Teachers College launches the 1954 baseball season and inaugurates a new athletic field Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

The traditional first day opponent is Albany State College. In two meetings between the two teams in 1953, each won on its own grounds.

The new stadium is located west of the college. It will furnish more playing area, fewer obstructions and better visibility for all athletic contests. It is also expected to create a new surge of interest in college baseball at New Paltz.

Nine Vets Return

Coach Loren D. Campbell's Orange and Blue have nine letter men returning for the 11-game slate which concludes on June 5 with the Alumni.

The heavy array of veterans promises New Paltz's best baseball campaign in the post-war period.

Wulff Real Vet

Last year's catcher — Jack Wulff—is ready for his fourth straight season of varsity catching. Three of last year's first line pitchers — Ellman, Manny Siegel and Dick King—are among the returnees.

Two former Kingston High School players — Frank "Spec" Ebelheiser and Don Lyon—are among the three veteran infielders. The other is Cummings.

Two of the top outfielders figure to be Girillo, the fast middle man and Foster, a 1952 letterman in pitching, who will play the outfield when not needed for mound duty.

Other promising candidates are Will Christian, catcher; Joe Gardiner, pitcher; John Whutner, Barnie Rutkowski and Vince Reba, infielders; and Lee Goodman among the outfielders.

The schedule:

May 1—Albany State.
May 4—Waterbury, Conn.
May 8—Oneonta State.
May 12—At Danbury, Conn.
May 15—Drew University.
May 18—At Albany State.
May 22—At Oneonta State.
May 24—At Waterbury, Conn.
May 29—Plattsburgh State.
June 1—Danbury, Conn.
June 5—Alumni.

Colonial Merchants Plan Saturday Drill

Colonial Merchants, looking ahead to the reorganization of the City Baseball League, plan a workout Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Athletic Field.

The team held a successful reorganization meeting Wednesday and is expected to name a captain today. Managed by George B. Harman, a veteran baseball figure, the Merchants plan to play a heavy independent schedule during the summer.

Billy Joe Patton Top Favorite in North-South Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., April 30 (AP)—Billy Joe Patton, sometimes erratic, usually spectacular, loomed as the man to beat as the North and South Amateur golf tournament moved into the semifinals today.

Patton, whose daring play just missed winning the Masters tournament three weeks ago, met William Hyndman, Abington, Pa., insurance operator in one 18-hole match, with Alex Welch, Rockford, Ill., attorney, engaging Frank Meacham, Roanoke Rapids, N. C., veteran, in the other. The winners meet over 36 holes for the title tomorrow.

Patton played what for him was a typical round in yesterday's quarter-finals as he smothered Curtis Person, Memphis, Tenn., 6 and 5. Billy Joe was in trouble off the tee on seven of 13 holes, yet he recovered so magnificently and putted so effectively he was two under par for the distance.

Hyndman, 38, lost in the semi-finals last year to eventual winner Bill Campbell. He had his tee shots working and his putter behaving better than at any time during the week in running away from William Loock, Scarsdale, N. Y., 6 and 5. Hyndman was one over par and didn't lose a hole. He turned even par and was six up. Four halved holes coming home were enough for the victory.

Welsh, a third round loser last year, took out Dick Chapman, the Pinehurst veteran, one up while Meacham was one over par in closing out 19-year-old Clinton White Toms, Duke freshman from Durham, two up.

The Notre Dame football and basketball teams may get all the glory but the Irish fencing squad has been successful, too. This season the fencers won 12 and lost only one.

Eighteen Schools Entered in Mid-Hudson Relays

Record Field Is Expected For May 8 Meet

KHS Will Compete In 440-880 Relays

Eighteen schools have filed entries for the third annual Hudson Valley Relays on Saturday, May 8, at the New Paltz high school track.

The meet, sponsored by the Student Council of New Paltz high, has grown into one of the largest events of its kind in New York state.

Late entries are expected to swell the field to the largest total ever.

Coach G. Warren Kias said recently that Kingston High would compete with limited entries — the 440 and 880 relay.

Entries already have been received from St. Patrick's, Middletown, Kingston, Tappan Zee, Marlborough, Arlington, Liberty, New Paltz, Columbia, Goshen and Highland Falls.

Also entered are Suffern, Carmel, Nyack, Walden, Tri-Valley, Montgomery and Cardinal Farley.

The meet consists of 15 running events and 12 field events. The feature of the meet is the "Invitational 100" restricted to the fastest century men in the mid-Hudson area.

Only Three Names Survive Grind in Masters Tournament

Seattle, April 30 (AP) — The American Bowling Congress masters tournament narrowed its field to 12 contestants last night and only three "name" bowlers survived the double elimination meet.

Rolling in the winners bracket quarter-finals today will be Willard Taylor, Charleston, W. Va., 1952 Masters champion; Chuck O'Donnell, St. Louis, ABC 10-year-average leader, and Dick Hoover, the Ft. Lewis, Wash., soldier from Akron, Ohio, and former all-star match game champion.

The 4th man in the winners' bracket is Eugene Elkins of San Francisco.

Correlation Remains Solid 5-2 Favorite in the Derby

Louisville, Ky., April 30 (AP)—A human flood threatened to engulf this Ohio River town as time approached for tomorrow's running of the 80th Kentucky Derby with a near record field in prospect for the $100,000-added race for three-year-olds.

The city was bulging at the seams as the trainers of an expected field of at least 20 marched into the secretary's office at Churchill Downs early this morning to drop the names of their hopefuls into the entry box for perhaps the richest of all derbies.

Few sporting events can match the Derby in color and this year is no exception. The Downs itself is a thing of beauty with its multiple colored flowers and plants and closely cropped grass.

Streets and stores are gaily decorated in horse motifs.

Out of the Downs' backstretch, where the Derby horses are stabled, the stars of this three-ring circus were as calm as if they were being pointed for an ordinary race. But not so with a number of the owners and trainers.

Post time for the Derby is 4:30 (EST) and by that time the three-eights mile long stands and the infield are expected to be packed with more than 100,000 spectators. The mile and a quarter classic will be televised from 4 to 4:45 p. m. and broadcast from 4:15 to 4:45 by Columbia Broadcasting System.

Showers were forecast for today but tomorrow the weather man promised good racing weather. It may be cloudy and a little cool, he said, but the racing strip should be lighting fast.

Record Field in 1928

The record field of 22 ran in 1928 when Reigh Count was first home. There have been as many as 20 starters three times in the last 23 years. The last was 1951, the year Count Turf surprised. It costs $250 to enter a horse and an additional $750 to start him.

If 21 are entered and as many as 18 start it'll be the richest Derby in history with a gross value of $127,600. On that basis the winner will receive a net of $105,500, exceeding the record of $98,050 won by Count Turf. The winner's share received a boost by the dropping of $6,000 in awards to the trainers this year.

Robert S. Lytle's long striding Correlation, winner of the Florida Derby and Wood Memorial, remained the firm 5 to 2 choice as the entries began coming in. There was no indication he would be ousted from the favorite's role before post time although his odds might well be shortened.

Goyamo, jointly owned by Royce G. Martin's Woodvale Farm and Mrs. W. Alston Jones, was still the second choice at 7 to 2.

Denver — Red Martinez, 117, Denver, knocked out Junior Best, 122, Salt Lake City, 2.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano

One of bowling's top human interest stories of the season unfolded Tuesday afternoon at the Central Rec alleys.

George "Curly" Flemings, sidelined several weeks with a leg injury that threatened to curtail his bowling career, walked into Red Sangi's emporium, allowed as how his leg felt better and decided to give it a trial run.

Rolling with Jack Hogan and Big Bill Johnson, the grocery store operator tossed a couple of modest games, then setled down to a run of 11 straight strikes on alleys 3 and 4. These are called the "graveyard" drives, you know.

Fleming's 12th ball was true and solid but left the 8-pin standing for a 299. The 8-pin tap is a heartbreaker anytime, but coming after 11 strikes in a row it's a real crusher.

Had George picked up the vital 12th strike he would have joined that select coterie of Kingston keglers who achieved the perfect "300" score among them Johnny Ferraro (5), Bob Hanley, Larry Petersen, Jr., Larry Weishaupt, and Leo Mellert.

Fleming's leg condition wasn't improved by the near-300 performance, but think of the boost to his morale.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Robert Skinner, the Pittsburgh Pirate rookie first base sensation, was a teammate of Lefty George Telepas with Mayfield, Ky., in the Kitty League last year. Helen Murphy says she is not a candidate for the secretary's post in the KWBA. The Yankees have reason to worry about Phil Rizzuto at short because the Scooter isn't making those vital stops going into the hole. Nat Fleischer's 1954 Ring Encyclopedia carries this newsworthy item: "First fight ever recorded: Cain vs. Abel." Who was the referee? Don Dahowski, Poughkeepsie High's great all-round athlete, headed for Fordham University via athletic scholarship. Jim McCabe, the restaurateur, has his Locksie's Princess entered in 11 races at Saratoga Raceway this summer. The Saratoga meet opens on June 7 and winds up August 28.

KINGSTON BOWLING lost one of its best rooters when Margaret E. Reynolds of Port Ewen passed away recently. The female bowlers regarded her as the No. 1 fan and spectator. Mrs. Reynolds visited the Bowlodrome about four nights a week to cheer her favorites and seemed to derive great enjoyment from watching others bowl. Bill Rappaport, the 1951 champion, finished third in the Mid-Hudson valley checker championship tournament at Poughkeepsie. George Traver of Poughkeepsie displaced Joe Schwartz of the same city as champion. Louis Brown of Kingston was in a three-way tie for fourth place. Long Tom Pottenburgh, 6 foot 9 Rhinebeck basketeer at Siena College, was drafted by the Syracuse Nationals. The player suffered an ankle injury in pre-season training and did not play during the 1953-54 campaign. It is expected he will return to play at Sient next season. Scot Glen Five of East Paterson, N. J., leads the Dutchess County Handicap sweeps with a 3245 gross. Five Jokers of Tillson rapped 3241 for second place, as F. Dettori hammered 650 with 225-233-192. Several Kingston teams due to take crack at those marks next week.

THE BASEBALL FEUD between Bill Ryan's Jewels and the Newburgh NEBBCO Majors will probably never be resolved. But Hugo Ciaccio, the NEBBCO business manager, flatly claims he has the fastest semi-pro outfit in the Hudson valley. Bob Earley, former NFA hurler, went from the NEBBCOs to a contract in the Brooklyn Dodger organization. Some of the NEBBCO performers in 1954 are expected to be Bob Maher, Bob and Richie Spreer, Mickey Burkoski of NFA; Jim Clark, Manhattan College; Dick Wagner of Albany State and Jack Lease of Rider College. Johnny Mize, broadcaster now, sounds off in the press box: "You can't write anything about me now. I'll go on the air the next day and straighten it out."

John Ferraro Hits 656; D. Rawding's 580 High In Central Rec Women

Two of the city's top pros—Johnny Ferraro and Dot Rawding led their respective divisions of bowling in Kingston last night.

The Ace cracked timbers at the Bowlodrome for 656 series on games of 205, 248 and 203. Harold Broskie tied for the high single mark of the night.

Mrs. Rawding hammered a hefty 580 in the Central Rec Women's circuit with 195-189-196. Reta Frederick also excelled with 545.

Mary Diamond was the Hercules Women's League leader with a run of 123-153-153 for 429.

Marion Zwick's 199 and Esther Naigles' 141-185-179 for 504 topped the Sisterhood League. A. Horowitz was a close runnerup with 502.

George Bilyou was top shooter in the Hercules men's circuit with 586 on games of 183-22-181.

Kuehn Shoots 630

Bill Kuehn furnished 630 (194-235-201) for Jones Dairy in the Major League. George Baird, of Poughkeepsie, slammed 632 with a middle set of 156 and Jerry Tenhope had 608 for Rafalowsky's.

Buster Ferraro anchored with 628 as Nadler Motors upset the league-leading Tony's Pizzeria 2-1. Dick Howard fashioned 601 for the losers. The other top series in the league was Jack Ferraro's 624 for Old Capital Motors.

New Paltz State Baseball Nine Plays 1954 Opener Saturday

Albany State Helps Dedicate New Stadium

Nine Returning Vets Boost Diamond Hopes

New Paltz State Teachers College launches the 1954 baseball season and inaugurates a new athletic field Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

The traditional first day opponent is Albany State College. In two meetings between the two teams in 1953, each won on its own grounds.

The new stadium is located west of the college. It will furnish more playing area, fewer obstructions and better visibility for all athletic contests. It is also expected to create a new surge of interest in college baseball at New Paltz.

Nine Vets Return

Coach Loren D. Campbell's Orange and Blue have nine letter men returning for the 11-game slate which concludes on June 5 with the Alumni.

The heavy array of veterans promises New Paltz's best baseball campaign in the post-war period.

Wulff Real Vet

Last year's catcher — Jack Wulff—is ready for his fourth straight season of varsity catching. Three of last year's first line pitchers — Ellman, Manny Siegel and Dick King—are among the returnees.

Two former Kingston High School players — Frank "Spec" Ebelheiser and Don Lyon—are among the three veteran infielders. The other is Cummings.

Two of the top outfielders figure to be Girillo, the fast middle man and Foster, a 1952 letterman in pitching, who will play the outfield when not needed for mound duty.

Other promising candidates are Will Christian, catcher; Joe Gardiner, pitcher; John Whutner, Barnie Rutkowski and Vince Reba, infielders; and Lee Goodman among the outfielders.

The schedule:

Colonial Merchants Plan Saturday Drill

Colonial Merchants, looking ahead to the reorganization of the City Baseball League, plan a workout Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Athletic Field.

The team held a successful reorganization meeting Wednesday and is expected to name a captain today. Managed by George B. Harman, a veteran baseball figure, the Merchants plan to play a heavy independent schedule during the summer.

Billy Joe Patton Top Favorite in North-South Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., April 30 (AP)—Billy Joe Patton, sometimes erratic, usually spectacular, loomed as the man to beat as the North and South Amateur golf tournament moved into the semifinals today.

Patton, whose daring play just missed winning the Masters tournament three weeks ago, met William Hyndman, Abington, Pa., insurance operator in one 18-hole match, with Alex Welch, Rockford, Ill., attorney, engaging Frank Meacham, Roanoke Rapids, N. C., veteran, in the other. The winners meet over 36 holes for the title tomorrow.

Patton played what for him was a typical round in yesterday's quarter-finals as he smothered Curtis Person, Memphis, Tenn., 6 and 5. Billy Joe was in trouble off the tee on seven of 13 holes, yet he recovered so magnificently and putted so effectively he was two under par for the distance.

Hyndman, 38, lost in the semifinals last year to eventual winner Bill Campbell. He had his tee shots working and his putter behaving better than at any time during the week in running away from William Loock, Scarsdale, N. Y., 6 and 5. Hyndman was one over par and didn't lose a hole. He turned even par and was six up. Four halved holes coming home were enough for the victory.

Welsh, a third round loser last year, took out Dick Chapman, the Pinehurst veteran, one up while Meacham was one over par in closing out 19-year-old Clinton White Toms, Duke freshman from Durham, two up.

The Notre Dame football and basketball teams may get all the glory but the Irish fencing squad has been successful, too. This season the fencers won 12 and lost only one.

Eighteen Schools Entered in Mid-Hudson Relays

Record Field Is Expected For May 8 Meet

KHS Will Compete In 440-880 Relays

Eighteen schools have filed entries for the third annual Hudson Valley Relays on Saturday, May 8, at the New Paltz high school track.

The meet, sponsored by the Student Council of New Paltz high, has grown into one of the largest events of its kind in New York state.

Late entries are expected to swell the field to the largest total ever.

Coach G. Warren Kias said recently that Kingston High would compete with limited entries — the 440 and 880 relay.

Entries already have been received from St. Patrick's, Middletown, Kingston, Tappan Zee, Marlborough, Arlington, Liberty, New Paltz, Columbia, Goshen and Highland Falls.

Also entered are Suffern, Carmel, Nyack, Walden, Tri-Valley, Montgomery and Cardinal Farley.

The meet consists of 15 running events and 12 field events. The feature of the meet is the "Invitational 100" restricted to the fastest century men in the mid-Hudson area.

Only Three Names Survive Grind in Masters Tournament

Seattle, April 30 (AP) — The American Bowling Congress masters tournament narrowed its field to 12 contestants last night and only three "name" bowlers survived the double elimination meet.

Rolling in the winners bracket quarter-finals today will be Willard Taylor, Charleston, W. Va., 1952 Masters champion; Chuck O'Donnell, St. Louis, ABC 10-year-average leader, and Dick Hoover, the Ft. Lewis, Wash., soldier from Akron, Ohio, and former all-star match game champion.

The 4th man in the winners' bracket is Eugene Elkins of San Francisco.

Correlation Remains Solid 5-2 Favorite in the Derby

Louisville, Ky., April 30 (AP)—A human flood threatened to engulf this Ohio River town as time approached for tomorrow's running of the 80th Kentucky Derby with a near record field in prospect for the $100,000-added race for three-year-olds.

The city was bulging at the seams as the trainers of an expected field of at least 20 marched into the secretary's office at Churchill Downs early this morning to drop the names of their hopefuls into the entry box for perhaps the richest of all derbies.

Few sporting events can match the Derby in color and this year is no exception. The Downs itself is a thing of beauty with its multiple colored flowers and plants and closely cropped grass.

Streets and stores are gaily decorated in horse motifs.

Out of the Downs' backstretch, where the Derby horses are stabled, the stars of this three-ring circus were as calm as if they were being pointed for an ordinary race. But not so with a number of the owners and trainers.

Post time for the Derby is 4:30 (EST) and by that time the three-eighths mile long stands and the infield are expected to be packed with more than 100,000 spectators. The mile and a quarter classic will be televised from 4 to 4:45 p. m. and broadcast from 4:15 to 4:45 by Columbia Broadcasting System.

Showers were forecast for today but tomorrow the weather man promised good racing weather. It may be cloudy and a little cool, he said, but the racing strip should be lighting fast.

Record Field in 1928

The record field of 22 ran in 1928 when Reigh Count was first home. There have been as many as 20 starters three times in the last 23 years. The last was 1951, the year Count Turf surprised. It costs $250 to enter a horse and an additional $750 to start him.

If 21 are entered and as many as 18 start it'll be the richest Derby in history with a gross value of $127,600. On that basis the winner will receive a net of $105,500, exceeding the record of $98,050 won by Count Turf. The winner's share received a boost by the dropping of $6,000 in awards to the trainers this year.

Robert S. Lytle's long striding Correlation, winner of the Florida Derby and Wood Memorial, remained the firm 5 to 2 choice as the entries began coming in. There was no indication he would be ousted from the favorite's role before post time although his odds might well be shortened.

Goyamo, jointly owned by Royce G. Martin's Woodvale Farm and Mrs. W. Alston Jones, was still the second choice at 7 to 2.

Denver — Red Martinez, 117, Denver, knocked out Junior Best, 122, Salt Lake City, 2.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

One of bowling's top human interest stories of the season unfolded Tuesday afternoon at the Central Rec alleys.

George "Curly" Flemings, sidelined several weeks with a leg injury that threatened to curtail his bowling career, walked into Red Sangi's emporium, allowed as how his leg felt better and decided to give it a trial run.

Rolling with Jack Hogan and Big Bill Johnson, the grocery store operator tossed a couple of modest games, then setled down to a run of 11 straight strikes on alleys 3 and 4. These are called the "graveyard" drives, you know.

Fleming's 12th ball was true and solid but left the 8-pin standing for a 299. The 8-pin tap is a heartbreaker anytime, but coming after 11 strikes in a row it's a real crusher.

Had George picked up the vital 12th strike he would have joined that select coterie of Kingston keglers who achieved the perfect "300" score among them Johnny Ferraro (5), Bob Hanley, Larry Petersen, Jr., Larry Weishaupt, and Leo Mellert.

Fleming's leg condition wasn't improved by the near-300 performance, but think of the boost to his morale.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Robert Skinner, the Pittsburgh Pirate rookie first base sensation, was a teammate of Lefty George Telepas with Mayfield, Ky., in the Kitty League last year. Helen Murphy says she is not a candidate for the secretary's post in the KWBA. The Yankees have reason to worry about Phil Rizzuto at short because the Scooter isn't making those vital stops going into the hole. Nat Fleischer's 1954 Ring Encyclopedia carries this newsworthy item: "First fight ever recorded: Cain vs. Abel." Who was the referee? Don Dahowski, Poughkeepsie High's great all-round athlete, headed for Fordham University via athletic scholarship. Jim McCabe, the restaurateur, has his Locksie's Princess entered in 11 races at Saratoga Raceway this summer. The Saratoga meet opens on June 7 and winds up August 28.

KINGSTON BOWLING lost one of its best rooters when Margaret E. Reynolds of Port Ewen passed away recently. The female bowlers regarded her as the No. 1 fan and spectator. Mrs. Reynolds visited the Bowlodrome about four nights a week to cheer her favorites and seemed to derive great enjoyment from watching others bowl. Bill Rappaport, the 1951 champion, finished third in the Mid-Hudson valley checker championship tournament at Poughkeepsie. George Traver of Poughkeepsie displaced Joe Schwartz of the same city as champion. Louis Brown of Kingston was in a three-way tie for fourth place. Long Tom Pottenburgh, 6 foot 9 Rhinebeck basketeer at Siena College, was drafted by the Syracuse Nationals. The player suffered an ankle injury in pre-season training and did not play during the 1953-54 campaign. It is expected he will return to play at Sient next season. Scot Glen Five of East Paterson, N. J., leads the Dutchess County Handicap sweeps with a 3245 gross. Five Jokers of Tillson rapped 3241 for second place, as F. Dettori hammered 650 with 225-233-192. Several Kingston teams due to take crack at those marks next weekend.

THE BASEBALL FEUD between Bill Ryan's Jewels and the Newburgh NEBBCO Majors will probably never be resolved. But Hugo Ciaccio, the NEBBCO business manager, flatly claims he has the fastest semi-pro outfit in the Hudson valley. Bob Earley, former NFA hurler, went from the NEBBCOs to a contract in the Brooklyn Dodger organization. Some of the NEBBCO performers in 1954 are expected to be Bob Maher, Bob and Richie Spreer, Mickey Burkoski of NFA; Jim Clark, Manhattan College; Dick Wagner of Albany State and Jack Lease of Rider College. Johnny Mize, broadcaster now, sounds off in the press box: "You can't write anything about me now. I'll go on the air the next day and straighten it out."

John Ferraro Hits 656; D. Rawding's 580 High In Central Rec Women

Two of the city's top pros—Johnny Ferraro and Dot Rawding led their respective divisions of bowling in Kingston last night.

The Ace cracked timbers at the Bowlodrome for 656 series on games of 205, 248 and 203. Harold Broskie tied for the high single mark of the night.

Mrs. Rawding hammered a hefty 580 in the Central Rec Women's circuit with 195-189-196. Reta Frederick also excelled with 545.

Mary Diamond was the Hercules Women's League leader with a run of 123-153-153 for 429.

Marion Zwick's 199 and Esther Naigles' 141-185-179 for 504 topped the Sisterhood League. A. Horowitz was a close runnerup with 502.

George Bilyou was top shooter in the Hercules men's circuit with 586 on games of 183-22-181.

Kuehn Shoots 630

Bill Kuehn furnished 630 (194-235-201) for Jones Dairy in the Major League. George Baird, of Poughkeepsie, slammed 632 with a middle set of 156 and Jerry Tenhope had 608 for Rafalowsky's.

Buster Ferraro anchored with 628 as Nadler Motors upset the league-leading Tony's Pizzeria 2-1. Dick Howard fashioned 601 for the losers. The other top series in the league was Jack Ferraro's 624 for Old Capital Motors.

Robin Roberts' 1-Hitter Is Warning To Rivals He's Back in Old Form

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Hitters Beware! Philadelphia's Robin Roberts is back in form—with a vegeance.

The tireless righthander has been mowing down the opposition with amazing regularity for 5½ seasons. But he hit the skids in the last six weeks of the 1953 campaign, losing eight while winning only three.

After showing next to nothing in spring training Roberts was kayoed by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates on opening day 4-2 and they began to sing the blues in Philadelphia.

But that's all over and forgiven now. He toppled the Pirates the next time out with a four-hit shutout, lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to the New York Giants last weekend and then last night stopped the Milwaukee Braves 4-0 on one lonesome hit.

Del Crandall's third inning double put the only dent in one of Roberts' best ever performances. The 27-year-old ex-Michigan State star faced 30 batters, walked two and struck out six. The walks both went to pinch hitters. Three of the strikeouts were registered against home run king Eddie Mathews.

The one-hitter was Roberts' first anywhere. Twice before he had given just two hits.

Stengel Strategy Clicks

Casey Stengel, who rewrites the rules of baseball strategy almost daily, brought in lefthander Enos Slaughter to pinch hit against lefty Billy Pierce in the sixth inning in New York and the former Cardinal star delivered a single that tied the game.

Eddie Robinson, another pinch hitter, followed with another single that meant another run and Allie Reynolds saved Eddie Lopat's 150th major league triumph with three hitless innings in relief.

Cleveland warmed up for a two game series with the Yankees by pounding four Boston pitchers for nine hits. The Indians got five of their runs in the first two innings as Willard Nixon suffered from wildness.

Bob Turley, of the Orioles who was beaten by Cleveland in his last start after pitching no-hit ball into the ninth inning, was in fine form again against Washington.

He struck out nine, making him the league's leading strikeout artist, and allowed only five hits. The one damaging Washington blow was a fourth inning homer by Roy Sievers.

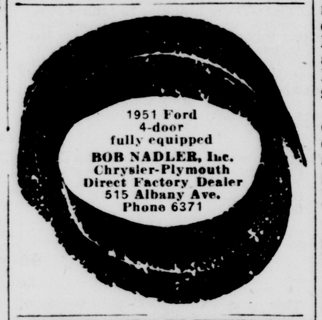

Dodgers Nip Reds

In other major league action yesterday the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded five home runs in beating the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-5 but the Reds held on to first place in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-3. Baltimore edged Washington 2-1; Cleveland defeated Boston 6-3 and the New York Yankees evened matters with the Chicago White Sox 5-4. The four other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home run barrage in Cincinnnati with a pair and added a double to the 10-hit attack against Harry Perkowski. Dick Williams, Pee Wee Reese and Gilliam all homered in the sixth inning. Snider got one in the first.

A pair of doubles, a walk and a sacrifice fly got a Redleg rally going in the ninth but relief ace Jim Hughes retired Jim Greengrass on a foul fly with the tying runs on base.

Bob Purkey, one of the score of Pittsburgh rookies, won his first major league start as Dick Cole singled home two runs in the top of the ninth at St. Louis. Harvey Haddix struck out 13 Pirates in suffering his third loss.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Champ Shows How To Play Bridge

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How would you play today's hand at a contract of four spades against the opening lead of the queen of hearts? It looks at first as though you must lose one heart, two diamonds and a club.

The average player would ruff the second round of hearts, draw three rounds of trumps, and rely on good luck in diamonds in order to make his contract. The expert line of play is completely different, as was indicated when the hand was actually played by Alvin Landy, well-known New York tournament star and official of the American Contract Bridge League.

West held the first trick with the queen of hearts and continued the suit, forcing Landy to ruff. Declarer decided to take the diamond finesse at once, since the contract would be fairly easy if that succeeded. East won with the king of diamonds and shrewdly returned a trump.

Since Landy had carefully ruffed the first trick with the ten of spades, he was able to play a low trump on this trick and could therefore win in dummy with the nine of spades. This enabled him to lead another heart from the dummy and ruff in his own hand.

He continued by drawing one more round of trumps with the ace of diamonds, and ruffed dummy's last heart with his own last trump.

Landy's next step was to enter dummy with the ace of clubs in order to draw West's last trump with dummy's king of spades. Since declarer could not follow suit to this third trump round, he was able to discard his losing club.

Now he led dummy's last diamond, and there was no way for East to prevent declarer from winning two of the last three tricks with the ten of diamonds and the king of clubs.

Australian Diplomats Begin Journey Home

Helsinki, Finland, April 30 (AP)—The Australian diplomatic staff ousted from Moscow was on its way by train today to Helsinki on the first leg of its journey home.

The group of 10 Australians, headed by Charge D'Affaires Brian Hill and including two wives and two children, left Moscow last night and were expected to arrive here later today.

The Embassy was shut down and the staff was asked to leave after the Soviet Union last week broke off diplomatic relations with Australia over the case of Vladimir Petrov, who quit his post in the Soviet Embassy in Canberra and was given political asylum.

Dispatches from Perth, Australia, said the 51 persons attached to Russia's mission in Australia left for Europe yesterday.

What are the FACTS on UHF Television?

by John Stone

Excitement in town is running at fever pitch these days. Almost everybody is talking and asking about UHF television. It's the big topic of conversation wherever you go.

However, there seems to be a shortage of good, hard FACTS about UHF. And most people don't seem to realize that no television set—regardless of cost—is better than its antenna.

You get out of a set only what you put into it. And what you put into it depends almost entirely on your ANTENNA. The antenna has the job of picking up a transmitted TV signal, and feeding it to your set. The stronger the signal, the better the picture. Never, never underestimate the importance of the antenna—especially in UHF. Here's why:

Under equal conditions, the range of UHF television is much less than VHF. On VHF, it's common for folks 70 or 80 miles away to get good, clear reception. But on UHF, you can be in a fringe area if you are only 30 miles away from the station. It's easy to see why your antenna plays a key role in UHF reception.

WATCH OUT FOR THE "TWIN TERRORS" OF UHF!

The antenna is a greater potential cause of trouble on UHF than VHF. There are two unique ways in which an antenna can really RUIN your UHF television picture. It will pay you to know them.

The first is antenna vibration. Strange as it may seem, a mere ½" vibration of your UHF antenna is equivalent to a vibration of 5" on VHF. This ½" vibration is enough to cause annoying picture flicker! A UHF antenna must be rigid and rugged.

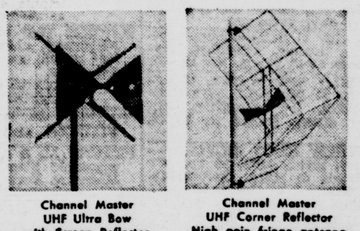

The second "Terror" is even more serious. An antenna has two terminals (where the wire is attached). These must always be isolated from each other. If dust or moisture accumulates between them, they become electrically "connected," and the picture either grows dim or shorts out completely.

This is exactly what happened recently in several UHF cities, notably Portland, Oregon. The TV installations were OK for a while. But the first good rainstorm caused thousands of UHF antennas to fail, when the water "connected" the terminals and shorted out the picture.

WHAT CAN YOU DO ABOUT IT?

Of course, you CAN avoid these "Twin Terrors!" There is one brand of antenna that has been specifically designed to prevent them from robbing you of TV enjoyment. These antennas are made by Channel Master, America's largest producer of television antennas.

Channel Master was the first to identify the "Twin Terrors" of UHF. And the first to do something about it. Channel Master UHF antennas are rigidly built. They will not vibrate! And because of specially designed "free space" terminals, not one Channel Master antenna has ever dimmed or shorted out a picture!

Channel Master UHF Ultra Bow with Screen Reflector

Channel Master UHF Corner Reflector High gain fringe antenna

Channel Master UHF antennas are genuine new UHF designs, not copies of old VHF models. Because they are the most sensitive antennas available today, they will give you BETTER RECEPTION than any other makes—no matter where you live, or what kind of TV set you own.

You'll be thrilled to see how a Channel Master UHF antenna improves picture quality. It cuts down on snow, and makes the picture stronger, sharper, and brighter. The price is right too.

There are a number of antennas to choose from, including models specifically designed for your local reception area! Wherever you live, you will enjoy the finest picture your set can produce—with a Channel Master UHF antenna.

Your dealer will be glad to tell you more. Call him today.

Ellenville Boxer Has 10-Puppy Litter

The Boxer here besieged so energetically by her 10 seven-week-old puppies is owned by nine-year-old Russell Foran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Foran of 2 Ida Lane, Ellenville. The dog is officially registered in pedigree circles as Gin Gick—but, confidentially, they call her Boxie. This was Boxie's first litter. When the puppies arrived Mrs. Foran made a formula and fed them with an eyedropper and small toy bottles. "We also had a heating pad to keep them warm, since there were too many for all to get close to their mother," Mrs. Foran explained. Poppa dog, by name of Prince J., has a family tree and Boxie comes of a line of champions, it is reported.

In other major league action yesterday the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded five home runs in beating the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-5 but the Reds held on to first place in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-3, Baltimore edged Washington 2-1; Cleveland defeated Boston 6-3 and the New York Yankees evened matters with the Chicago White Sox 5-4. The four other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home run barrage in Cincinnnati with a pair and added a double to the 10-hit attack against Harry Perkowski. Dick Williams, Pee Wee Reese and Gilliam all homered in the sixth inning. Snider got one in the first.

A pair of doubles, a walk and a sacrifice fly got a Redleg rally going in the ninth but relief ace Jim Hughes retired Jim Greengrass on a foul fly with the tying runs on base.

Bob Purkey, one of the score of Pittsburgh rookies, won his first major league start as Dick Cole singled home two runs in the top of the ninth at St. Louis. Harvey Haddix struck out 13 Pirates in suffering his third loss.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Champ Shows How To Play Bridge

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How would you play today's hand at a contract of four spades against the opening lead of the queen of hearts? It looks at first as though you must lose one heart, two diamonds and a club.

The average player would ruff the second round of hearts, draw three rounds of trumps, and rely on good luck in diamonds in order to make his contract. The expert line of play is completely different, as was indicated when the hand was actually played by Alvin Landy, well-known New York tournament star and official of the American Contract Bridge League.

West held the first trick with the queen of hearts and continued the suit, forcing Landy to ruff. Declarer decided to take the diamond finesse at once, since the contract would be fairly easy if that succeeded. East won with the king of diamonds and shrewdly returned a trump.

Since Landy had carefully ruffed the first trick with the ten of spades, he was able to play a low trump on this trick and could therefore win in dummy with the nine of spades. This enabled him to lead another heart from the dummy and ruff in his own hand.

He continued by drawing one more round of trumps with the ace of diamonds, and ruffed dummy's last heart with his own last trump.

Landy's next step was to enter dummy with the ace of clubs in order to draw West's last trump with dummy's king of spades. Since declarer could not follow suit to this third trump round, he was able to discard his losing club.

Now he led dummy's last diamond, and there was no way for East to prevent declarer from winning two of the last three tricks with the ten of diamonds and the king of clubs.

Australian Diplomats Begin Journey Home

Helsinki, Finland, April 30 (AP)—The Australian diplomatic staff ousted from Moscow was on its way by train today to Helsinki on the first leg of its journey home.

The group of 10 Australians, headed by Charge D'Affaires Brian Hill and including two wives and two children, left Moscow last night and were expected to arrive here later today.

The Embassy was shut down and the staff was asked to leave after the Soviet Union last week broke off diplomatic relations with Australia over the case of Vladimir Petrov, who quit his post in the Soviet Embassy in Canberra and was given political asylum.

Dispatches from Perth, Australia, said the 51 persons attached to Russia's mission in Australia left for Europe yesterday.

What are the FACTS on UHF Television?

by John Stone

Excitement in town is running at fever pitch these days. Almost everybody is talking and asking about UHF television. It's the big topic of conversation wherever you go.

However, there seems to be a shortage of good, hard FACTS about UHF. And most people don't seem to realize that no television set—regardless of cost—is better than its antenna.

You get out of a set only what you put into it. And what you put into it depends almost entirely on your ANTENNA. The antenna has the job of picking up a transmitted TV signal, and feeding it to your set. The stronger the signal, the better the picture. Never, never underestimate the importance of the antenna—especially in UHF. Here's why:

Under equal conditions, the range of UHF television is much less than VHF. On VHF, it's common for folks 70 or 80 miles away to get good, clear reception. But on UHF, you can be in a fringe area if you are only 30 miles away from the station. It's easy to see why your antenna plays a key role in UHF reception.

WATCH OUT FOR THE "TWIN TERRORS" OF UHF!

The antenna is a greater potential cause of trouble on UHF than VHF. There are two unique ways in which an antenna can really RUIN your UHF television picture. It will pay you to know them.

The first is antenna vibration. Strange as it may seem, a mere ½" vibration of your UHF antenna is equivalent to a vibration of 5" on VHF. This ½" vibration is enough to cause annoying picture flicker! A UHF antenna must be rigid and rugged.

The second "Terror" is even more serious. An antenna has two terminals (where the wire is attached). These must always be isolated from each other. If dust or moisture accumulates between them, they become electrically "connected," and the picture either grows dim or shorts out completely.

This is exactly what happened recently in several UHF cities, notably Portland, Oregon. The TV installations were OK for a while. But the first good rainstorm caused thousands of UHF antennas to fail, when the water "connected" the terminals and shorted out the picture.

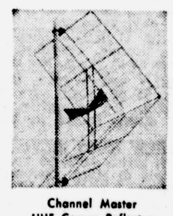

WHAT CAN YOU DO ABOUT IT?

Of course, you CAN avoid these "Twin Terrors!" There is one brand of antenna that has been specifically designed to prevent them from robbing you of TV enjoyment. These antennas are made by Channel Master, America's largest producer of television antennas.

Channel Master was the first to identify the "Twin Terrors" of UHF. And the first to do something about it. Channel Master UHF antennas are rigidly built. They will not vibrate! And because of specially designed "free space" terminals, not one Channel Master antenna has ever dimmed or shorted out a picture!

Channel Master UHF Ultra Bow with Screen Reflector

Channel Master UHF Corner Reflector High gain fringe antenna

Channel Master UHF antennas are genuine new UHF designs, not copies of old VHF models. Because they are the most sensitive antennas available today, they will give you BETTER RECEPTION than any other makes—no matter where you live, or what kind of TV set you own.

You'll be thrilled to see how a Channel Master UHF antenna improves picture quality. It cuts down on snow, and makes the picture stronger, sharper, and brighter. The price is right too.

There are a number of antennas to choose from, including models specifically designed for your local reception area! Wherever you live, you will enjoy the finest picture your set can produce—with a Channel Master UHF antenna.

Your dealer will be glad to tell you more. Call him today.

Ellenville Boxer Has 10-Puppy Litter

The Boxer here besieged so energetically by her 10 seven-week-old puppies is owned by nine-year-old Russell Foran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Foran of 2 Ida Lane, Ellenville. The dog is officially registered in pedigree circles as Gin Gick—but, confidentially, they call her Boxie. This was Boxie's first litter. When the puppies arrived Mrs. Foran made a formula and fed them with an eyedropper and small toy bottles. "We also had a heating pad to keep them warm, since there were too many for all to get close to their mother," Mrs. Foran explained. Poppa dog, by name of Prince J., has a family tree and Boxie comes of a line of champions, it is reported.

No Opposition Expressed to Plan

A public hearing on a bid for a franchise to "pipe in" television programs in the city and another on application for a business zone designation for a property at 2 Pearl street ended without opposition in the Common Council chamber before the council laws and rules committee last night.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the committee, presided and the full committee including Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, and Alderman Edwin Radel, William K. Bodenweber, and Joseph Wenzel, attended.

Attorney John L. Larkin, appearing for The Paramount Mult TV Co., of New York, which seeks the franchise, explained the method of wiring in or "piping in" to be used. The company, he said, will try to keep the installation cost below $100 and he indicated that the monthly rate would not be more than $2.50 and could get as low as $1 if enough TV set owners subscribed.

Says No Harm Ahead

The attorney felt that the system, which would allow for a "clear picture on all all channels," would not be harmful to the local television station, and through piping in local programs on a clear channel, the need for converting television sets for local reception could be eliminated.

While dealers might lose some sales on towers and antennae, he said, they would be in a position to sell more television sets. Ten persons attended the session, and several of them asked questions, but none opposed the application. Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Harry Gold, chairman of the chamber's legislation committee, attended.

It was noted that rates for such services are controlled by the N. Y. State Public Service Commission, but this type service is comparatively new and no PSC rates have been established.

Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, appearing in behalf of the application for a business zone designation for the MacKinnon property at 2 Pearl street, noted that most of the surrounding properties in the area housed business establishments, and he felt his application should be granted on that basis.

10,762 Vacancies Exist in Schools

Albany, April 30 (AP)—New York state's education commissioner, charging educators with the responsibility of recruiting new teachers, says candidates are unsighted for 10,762 vacancies in the state school system next September.

Lewis L. Wilson said the present overflow enrollments in elementary schools would boost high school enrollments from today's 500,000 to 900,000 by the early 1960s.

The commissioner told 124 educators at the first New York state conference on the teaching profession last night that it was "our responsibility as teachers" to encourage outstanding students to become teachers.

Madame Chiang Enters San Francisco Hospital

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, 56, today entered Franklin Hospital for treatment of a recurring skin ailment, traced to an allergy when she was treated for it here in 1952.

She arrived last night in the personal plane of President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China. She came from Formosa via Okinawa and Honolulu.

Air force policemen barred newsmen and photographers from the landing area at Travis Air Force base where her plane set down.

No Opposition Expressed to Plan

A public hearing on a bid for a franchise to "pipe in" television programs in the city and another on application for a business zone designation for a property at 2 Pearl street ended without opposition in the Common Council chamber before the council laws and rules committee last night.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the committee, presided and the full committee including Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, and Alderman Edwin Radel, William K. Bodenweber, and Joseph Wenzel, attended.

Attorney John L. Larkin, appearing for The Paramount Mult TV Co., of New York, which seeks the franchise, explained the method of wiring in or "piping in" to be used. The company, he said, will try to keep the installation cost below $100 and he indicated that the monthly rate would not be more than $2.50 and could get as low as $1 if enough TV set owners subscribed.

Says No Harm Ahead

The attorney felt that the system, which would allow for a "clear picture on all all channels," would not be harmful to the local television station, and through piping in local programs on a clear channel, the need for converting television sets for local reception could be eliminated.

While dealers might lose some sales on towers and antennae, he said, they would be in a position to sell more television sets. Ten persons attended the session, and several of them asked questions, but none opposed the application. Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Harry Gold, chairman of the chamber's legislation committee, attended.

It was noted that rates for such services are controlled by the N. Y. State Public Service Commission, but this type service is comparatively new and no PSC rates have been established.

Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, appearing in behalf of the application for a business zone designation for the MacKinnon property at 2 Pearl street, noted that most of the surrounding properties in the area housed business establishments, and he felt his application should be granted on that basis.

10,762 Vacancies Exist in Schools

Albany, April 30 (AP)—New York state's education commissioner, charging educators with the responsibility of recruiting new teachers, says candidates are unsighted for 10,762 vacancies in the state school system next September.

Lewis L. Wilson said the present overflow enrollments in elementary schools would boost high school enrollments from today's 500,000 to 900,000 by the early 1960s.

The commissioner told 124 educators at the first New York state conference on the teaching profession last night that it was "our responsibility as teachers" to encourage outstanding students to become teachers.

Madame Chiang Enters San Francisco Hospital

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, 56, today entered Franklin Hospital for treatment of a recurring skin ailment, traced to an allergy when she was treated for it here in 1952.

She arrived last night in the personal plane of President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China. She came from Formosa via Okinawa and Honolulu.

Air force policemen barred newsmen and photographers from the landing area at Travis Air Force base where her plane set down.

G. Herbert DeKay, senior elder, presided at the meeting and outlined the various matters of business under consideration by the Consistory. Organization annual reports were presented in mimeographed form.

Several numbers were sung by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Simmons, Mrs. Harry Seitz and James T. Little, accompanied at the piano by Donald R. Romme. Approximately 250 persons attended the dinner meeting. A special program for the children was presented in the Chambers room during the business session.

First wagon train over the Rockies was led by Marcus Whitman in 1836.

Midwest and Rockies Experience Storms

(By The Associated Press)

Late April storms, rain, snow and strong winds, swept broad areas in the mid-continent and Rocky Mountains today.

Cooler weather moved from the Montana-North Dakota border southward to the Texas panhandle. Temperatures were below freezing over the northern Rockies as far south as Denver, over most of the Dakotas and in northern Minnesota.

Several small tornadoes were reported in west Texas and parts of Oklahoma yesterday. The Weather Bureau said there was a possibility of tornadoes in the same general area today.

Mild weather continued in the southern tier of states and mostly fair weather was reported in other sections.

An observer at the latitude of New York city can see more stars than are visible from either the North or South poles.
